POLICE WATCH SIX WOMEN

SMUGGLER SUSPECTS

WOMEN BLOW UP STATION

LONDON, April 4.—The militants started in today with the usual ceremony which they promised when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was sentenced to serve three years in Holloway Jail for the destruction of Chancellor George's home by blowing up a railroad station at Oxted in Surrey.

At Stockport they blew up a train on the London & Northwestern Railway. The engine driver was seriously injured. At both points the militants had planned for fire to follow the explosion.

At Oxted the charge of powder laid on a train was so heavy that it blew away a tin of petroleum intended as a torch without igniting it. At Stockport it was found that resin and oil had been smeared on the couches of the train. A pistol was found in the ruins of the Oxted station.

The followers of Mrs. Pankhurst declare that they have only begun; that they will go right to the head of the nation—King George—to get the right to vote, and many extraordinary precautions are being made to guard the King and all high government officials. Scotland Yard detectives are on the watch everywhere to protect them.

Woman Artist Arrested.

Olive Hockin, an artist and confidante of Mrs. Pankhurst, at whose studio a suffragette arsenal was found, was arraigned in Old Bailey Court today on a charge of conspiring to destroy government property. Miss Hockin was neither acknowledged or the face of the reader. "I was never known to the general public as a militant," she said. "I have only been a member of the Women's Social and Political Union for a year, and I have only been in the forefront of our glorious cause, Mrs. Pankhurst. If I am sent to prison I will go to it gladly, indeed, for I am sure I can serve better on the British people that we are just beginning to fight. What has gone before is mere skirmishing to compassion with what is to follow. We are determined that women of England shall enjoy their civil rights which are justly theirs, and are now ready to go to any extremes to get them."

Crowd of Women in Court.

A [illegible] women, most of them members of the Women's Social and Political Union, of which organization Mrs. Pankhurst was its president, gathered at Old Bailey for the trial of Miss Hockin. Some of them carried banners, others wore black and yellow sashes and all were suggestive of their suffragette colors. Before they entered the courtroom, they sang suffrage songs and cheered for Mrs. Pankhurst. While this was going on the police were active all over England in a concerted campaign to forestall militancy.

At Mitcham, a suburb of this city, policemen arrested two suffragettes named Phyllis Brody and Millicent Dean, both of whom have been up on charges before. The women were carrying bags which upon being opened at the police station were found to contain candles, petroleum, time fuses, oakum and other implements usually employed by those convicted of arson. There was a number of sheets of paper also, containing the inscription, "[illegible] you treat Mrs. Pankhurst."

Sydney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, received an anonymous notice that the suffragettes intended burning down a number of railway stations in the environs of Birmingham.

Railroads Guarded.

The railroads were notified and details of private guards were placed along the tracks to prevent incendiarism.

If conditions become worse it is thought Home Secretary McKenna will use soldiers to patrol the railroad stations and save property.

Because of their threats against human life last night, it is feared that fanatics among the women may be carried to extremes and try to wreck trains.

One of the great fears among the London authorities is that King George may be made to suffer in some way at the hands of suffragettes. It was reported that in a communication from Mrs. Pankhurst read at the headquarters of the Women's Social and Political Union last night the militant leader spoke of "The logic of the torch and gunpowder as the only kind of argument the government would understand."

Girl With Hatpin Holds Crook Until Policeman Arrive

NEW YORK, April 4.—Discovery that "the female of the species is more deadly that the male," was made today by Alexander Farawitz said by the police to be a notorious crook.

For months he had successfully dodged

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST, the suffragette leader, now serving three years for conspiring to blow up Chancellor George's house, and her daughter, Christabel, who is now an exile in Paris to avoid prosecution for violence.

secret service men, detectives and ordinary policemen. And then Miss Rosner Herold entered his life and now he's in jail. Miss Herold, a stenographer, noticed a man extracting a letter from the company's mail box today. Armed with a hat pin she cornered him, forced him to turn back the letter and kept him a prisoner by keeping the pin close to his stomach until a boy arrived with a policeman.

Farawitz is said to have served terms in Sing Sing, N. Y., Elmira, N. Y., Toronto and Kingston, Ont., and the Eastern Pennsylvania prisons.

FIREBUG BUSY IN PEABODY; FOUR ATTEMPTS FOILED

Three fires, all probably of incendiary origin, a fourth attempt at arson and a burglary were reported in the English street district in Peabody today. Firemen were first called to the house at No. 31 English street, the lower tenement of which is occupied by Louis Raphael, who was awakened by the sound of matches being piled against the side of the house.

An attempt to fire the residence of Annie Corrigan, a few doors away, was discovered, where partly burned papers had been piled against the side of the house.

A third fire was started in a pile of rubbish at the woolly plant of A. P. Ames & Co., and a fourth minor blaze occurred at the factory of the Armstrong Leather Company.

During the night the shoe factory of F. P. Osborne & Co. in the same neighborhood was entered.

HONOR D. OF R. OFFICERS.

The State Council of Daughters of the Revolution was hostesses today at a tea given the newly elected officers and members. Tea was served in the headquarters of the society at No. 100 Boylston street.

YOUNG BRIDE OF A. H. SHAW ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Acrata von Schrader Shaw, the rich young society bride of Arthur Dunnewell Shaw of No. 151 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay, has filed papers in a divorce suit at Dedham. She alleges that her husband has confirmed habits of intoxication, caused by opium and other drugs.

Shaw is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw of the multi-millionaire Shaw family. Mrs. Shaw, who was Miss Von Schrader of St. Louis, is his bride of but a few months, the couple having been married in the bride's home city, December 5, 1911.

Gossip concerning the separation of the Shaws and the coming divorce suit has been a choice morsel for Boston society for several weeks, additional savor being lent by the prominence of the husband's Boston connections.

The marriage of young Shaw, who graduated from Harvard in 1908, to Acrata von Schrader, the St. Louis society beauty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto U. von Schrader, was heralded only last December as a love match pure and simple. The couple were said to be deeply devoted to each other. Cupid was supposed to have shot his barbed shafts so surely that no dissension could ever follow.

JUNE KEYES LEAVES HOME AND HUSBAND

Mrs. Ralph P. Keyes (June Ainsworth), elder daughter of Mrs. Jessie May Eaton, has moved her personal goods from the home she and her husband occupied at No. 7 Summer street, Medford, and, according to a statement she makes to a schoolgirl friend at Assinippi, "will never go back to Ralph Keyes."

This abrupt development comes after a married life of four months. Miss June Ainsworth and Ralph P. Keyes were married at the Hotel Vendome on November 29 last.

One of the many Eaton family misfortunes involved in the alimony polsons mystery has been a persistent rumor that differences had arisen so soon between Mr. and Mrs. Keyes. The former is a clerk in a Boston bank.

Mrs. Keyes' statement to her girl friend in Assinippi about breaking up the Medford house was as follows:

I will never go back to Ralph Keyes. I have brought all my personal belongings from my home in Medford to Assinippi.

I never would have married him but for my mother, who insisted that I have a home of my own in case anything happened to her. Mr. Keyes and I were never really united in each other.

Mr. Keyes is twelve years older than I. He is too old for me. Dorothy needs me more than does Ralph Keyes.

King Nicholas of Montenegro Defies All Europe

LONDON, April 4.—"We mean to take Scutari and keep it."

This note of defiance to the powers of Europe is contained in an interview with King Nicholas of Montenegro at Cettinje and published here today in the Mall Gazette. Continuing, the monarch of the little kingdom said:

"Far better to die fighting than continue living as we are now, and for this reason we shall continue to defy Europe."

It is considered in Cettinje that the fall of Scutari is a matter of only a few days.

POLICE SHOOT IN STRIKE RIOTS AT AUBURN; SIX HURT

AUBURN, N. Y., April 4.—Riots were renewed at the plant of the Columbia Rope Company today when 300 strikers attacked the incoming office force. The police tried to drive them away, but they refused to go and after a woman named Rosie Kim, an agitator, had urged the strikers to fight, the police seized her and placing her in a patrol wagon started away. The rioters mobbed the wagon and forcibly rescued the woman.

The police had a hand-to-hand fight and got her in again when the men began to throw stones. The police ordered them dispersed and fired one round of shots over their heads. The attack continued and a second round was fired into the crowd. Six were hit. Two were women, who were only slightly injured and went home. Four were seriously hurt and two probably will die.

NEWTON TAILOR IS BROUGHT BACK IN POLYGAMY CASE

Inspector Edward O'Halloran of the Newton police returned to Newton today from Vermont with Frederick Augustus Gorgoni, a Newton tailor, whom he arrested at the Canadian line on an indictment warrant charging polygamy. The police say Gorgoni has been married three times. The arrest brings to light the story of how two alleged wives trailed the tailor around the country and finally came to Boston too late, by a week, to prevent the ringing of the wedding bells at the Eliot Church in Newton for Gorgoni's marriage to Miss Carmela Feola, twenty-one years old.

Gorgoni is twenty-seven and is described as handsome. The police said his alleged first and second wives traced him from Newton to Toronto, where they faced him in court. Gorgoni was ordered deported on being arrested when he crossed the Vermont line.

VOTE AGAINST FINANCIAL PROBE OF NEW ELECTRIC

The Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives today reported against the adoption of the order introduced by Representative Barnes of Mansfield asking the Railroad Commission to investigate the financial condition of the Boston & Eastern Electric Railroad Company.

This action it was generally agreed today practically assures the extension of time for the filing by the Boston & Eastern of the $400,000 bond required by the Act of 1911.

SALEM MAN HELD FOR AUTO ACCIDENT

Eli Morin, 27 years old, of Salem, pleaded not guilty in the District Court today of criminal negligence in running down with his motorcycle Miss Ruth Lanctot, 17 years old, of Peabody, who is at Salem Hospital in an unconscious condition. Morin fainted when he heard of the girl's serious condition. He was held in $500 for his appearance in court April 11.

TO GRILL BOSTON LAWYER IN BIG CUSTOMS FRAUD

Six Boston women are being closely watched by federal agents in this city as suspects in connection with the big smuggling frauds now under investigation. This fact became known this afternoon. In addition to these women, several men are under surveillance. It was also learned today that several arrests are near, including at least three women suspects. Another startling development today is that a well known Boston lawyer is to be called before the federal Grand Jury next Tuesday to tell what he knows of the smuggling frauds.

WOMEN FRIENDS OF "BIG BILL" KELIHER.

One of the women suspects is the proprietor of an exclusive Back Bay dressmaking establishment. She is said to be a friend of Mrs. Terence L. Shevlin, who with her husband, is already under arrest in the case. Two other women suspects are dressmakers, and both are friends of "Big Bill" Keliher.

The federal authorities have learned that a number of the alleged smugglers lost thousands of dollars they got from the government by smuggling Parisian gowns and other woman's apparel to "Big Bill" and his faro gang. Two of the women suspects went to New York with Keliher at the time he was "trimming" George W. Coleman, looter of the National City Bank of Cambridge.

Tighten Net About Suspects.

The government agents tightened their net about all the Boston suspects—both men and women—today following the report from New York that persons implicated in that city in the Boston frauds had disappeared. The authorities turned their attention to investigating the information they received that there was an intimate connection between Keliher's faro gang and the smugglers. This led to a report that Keliher must be questioned by the government agents in Boston.

The Boston lawyer mentioned in the case is a member of the Bar Association and also holds an office in a city close to Boston. It is stated that his appearance at the grand jury inquiry into the frauds will be a sensation. The lawyer is known to have been brought into the case by witnesses who have already told United States District Attorney French what they know of the operations of the smugglers.

The fact that "Big Bill" Keliher is supposed to have been intimate with several persons concerned in the gigantic

United Fruiter Rides Out Tempest; Fights a Derelict

The United Fruit steamship Lillie, Captain Blay, came into port today from San Domingo. On Tuesday the steamer ran into a cyclone storm off Cape Hatteras, which spun the vessel around in a circle. For twenty-four hours she pitched helplessly in the high seas. One wave swept over the bows, smashing everything on deck and flooding the forecastle. The crew was compelled to find quarters in the after hold.

On Tuesday a derelict was sighted. Running down to her, Captain Blay found the ship deserted, the only living thing aboard being a cat in the fore rigging which was left to its fate. She was so waterlogged that her name was sunk out of sight.

Some hours later the Lillie ran into an immense field of lumber. This, Captain Blay believes was the schooner's deckload. The crew was probably lost.

TAYLOR, PARDONED SLAYER, IS AGAIN UNDER ARREST

Benjamin F. Taylor was sent to the House of Correction today for fifteen days for intoxication, after being arrested by the same patrolman who arrested him twenty-three years ago for murder. Taylor is seventy-three years old. He was arrested twenty-three years ago by Elmer Jones, a Boston patrolman, for murder of a stableman. He was sentenced to Charlestown State Prison for life, but was paroled three weeks ago by Governor Foss. Patrolman Jones, who is still on the Boston force, arrested Taylor yesterday on a charge of intoxication, and Judge Sullivan sent him away today in the Boston Municipal Court.

KILLS DAUGHTER TO "SAVE HER SOUL."

SATCHELOR, La., April 4.—After shrieking "The only way I can save your soul is to kill you," George Brown, aged 45, shot and killed his 16-year-old daughter because she had insisted on her right to marry a man of another religion. He then hanged himself.

HELD IN $200 FOR BREAK.

Samuel Cohen of No. 43 Pleasant street, South End, was held in $1,200 in Boston Municipal Court today for the Grand Jury on charges of breaking and entering and of larceny of six pairs of shoes from a Pleasant St. shoe store.

SOMERVILLE BOY IS MISSING.

Anthony Barbera, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barbera, of No. 25 Vine street, Somerville, has been missing since February 21. He is afflicted with heart trouble, and his relatives fear he is ill and unable to communicate.

PASS BILL FOR DIRECT VOTE ON SENATORS

By an overwhelming vote and without debate, the House of Representatives today passed to be engrossed the bill providing for the direct nomination of candidates for United States Senator at primaries, and to permit an expression of preference by the voters between candidates chosen at election.

The action of the House in passing the bill without debate did not occasion any surprise, although the same body rejected a similar bill shortly before the election of Congressman Weeks to succeed Senator Crane.

It is generally believed that what prompted the House to take favorable action today was the belief that before Senator Lodge's term expires, March 3, 1917, Congress will have put into effect the amendment to the constitution providing for the direct election of United States senators.

The bill passed today has been advocated for several years by Secretary of State Frank J. Donahue, who was the original petitioner for it, Governor Foss, Lieutenant-Governor Walsh and other prominent Democratic leaders.

SUIT IS BROUGHT OVER B. & M. PASS

NASHUA, April 4.—Henry A. Cutter, director of the Peterboro Railroad, a leased line of the Boston & Maine, has filed a bill in equity to compel the Boston & Maine to honor the passes of officials of the Peterboro road on all its lines. The Peterboro railroad officials claim their passes were, under the terms of the lease, to be good on any part of the lines.

MISS ETHEL ROOSEVELT NOW A BRIDE

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., April 4.—Miss Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, was married at noon today in Christ Episcopal Church to Dr. Richard A. Derby.

In deference to the wishes of the family, there was no elaborate wedding, only intimate friends and the rather large family connection being present.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George E. Talmarge, rector of the church. Those of the wedding guests who were not already staying at Sagamore Hill were brought to Oyster Bay on a special train at 11 a. m. in time for the church ceremony.

A long line of automobiles and carriages carried the house guests of the Roosevelts and the bridal party from Sagamore Hill to the church and back again for a reception after the ceremony. The entire arrangements were in contrast to the elaborate details which attended the wedding of Miss Roosevelt's sister Alice to Congressman Nicholas Longworth in the White House, while Colonel Roosevelt was President.

The church and the Roosevelt home, however, were prettily decorated.

Miss Roosevelt had five attendants: Miss Helen Coster, daughter of Mrs. Charles Coster; Miss Josephine Osborn, daughter of Professor Henry F. Osborn; Miss Margaret Tucker, Miss Derby, a relative of the bridegroom, and Miss Cornelia Langdon.

Roger A. Derby was his brother's best man. The ushers were Archie Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt's brother; James L. Derby, a brother of the bridegroom; Edmund P. Rogers, John C. Waterbury, Dr. Henry James and Nelson P. Bossert, of Boston.

Mr. Derby and his bride will sail for Europe tomorrow.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was among the wedding guests from Boston.

Dr. Derby is a graduate of Harvard, class of '05. His father, who was a famous eye specialist, was also a graduate of Harvard, class of '67.

During the early Summer of 1912 Miss Roosevelt was a conspicuous figure in Boston society. She attended at King's Chapel the wedding of her cousin, Gracie Hall Roosevelt of New York to Margaret Richardson, daughter of Dr. Maurice H. Richardson.

Both the bride and groom are enthusiastic lovers of the horse, and their romance has been a romance of the saddle. They were very much in each other's society last Summer and Autumn at open air horse shows. Together they witnessed polo games at Meadowbrook and Rockaway clubs and at the Piping Rock Club at Locust Valley.

HUNDRED NOW FACE EVICTION AT HOPEDALE

One hundred families of strikers are today facing eviction owing to the rule that only employes of the Draper Mills at Hopedale can remain tenants of the houses owned by the concern. The company's refusal to take back the strikers is taken as meaning they must get out.

On their march back from Hopedale today disorder broke out in the marching ranks on Central street, Milford. About fifty broke away from the other 400 in line and ran to nearby stores, where they discussed excitedly the action they proposed to take.

Several of the leaders, among them Joseph M. Coldwell, succeeded in quieting them and inducing them to return to the ranks. They marched to headquarters at Charles River Driving Park Hall.

The Draper company is planning to fill the places of strikers.

Orders have been given the police to redouble their watchfulness when darkness sets in today.

MAY GRILL KELIHER IN CUSTOMS INQUIRY; SEEK WOMAN WITNESS

smuggling conspiracy was made known in the search for Mrs. Nicholas Schram, whose maiden name was Lena Bradley, and who is a sister to Mrs. Terrence Shevlin, now under arrest.

Keliher, it is said, became acquainted with Mrs. Schram and others under suspicion in connection with the smuggling case through the operations of the faro gang in New York, where Mrs. Schram is thought to be in hiding.

"Big Bill" is said to have become acquainted with the Shevlins through Mrs. Schram, and he and other members of the faro gang are said to have been frequently entertained at the Shevlin Summer home near Duxbury.

Keliher is also said to have been seen in the company of several Boston dressmakers and costumers against whom suspicion has been directed in the development of the past few days. Shevlin and "Big Bill" are reported to have been frequent visitors to a resort in the West End often sought by the faro gang when making preparations to fleece an intended victim.

Chief Wilkie and his treasury agents are today attempting to corroborate these reports and Keliher may be removed from his cell to the Federal Building to give Secretary Meadow and Chief Wilkie a chance to question him on several important phases of the smuggling conspiracy.

Many Witnesses Called.

The Federal Grand Jury begins its investigation of the smuggling frauds next Tuesday. Subpoenas will be served tomorrow on from fifty to seventy-five witnesses who are to tell the Grand Jury all they may know. These witnesses include officials, inspectors, clerks, examiners, deputies, carriage and taxi men, and also expressmen who have carried certain trunks from the Charlestown and East Boston docks to the South Station. Still other witnesses will be brought to Boston from New York.

The Grand Jury investigation will be directed by District Attorney French and his assistants, William H. Garland and Daniel J. Shea.

Government officials today renewed their hunt for Mrs. Schram. Her maiden name was Lena Bradley.

She was the wife of William J. Hafford, a ball player of Somerville. She is about thirty years old, tall, good looking, the mother of two children, and is the past three months has been known in Boston as Mrs. Nicholas Schram.

As Mrs. Schram she lived on Temple street, Allston street, Mt. Vernon street and in the South End since Christmas time, but dropped from sight since the smuggling charges were brought against the Shevlins and Miss Kate Brennan, the New York dressmaker.

The authorities are anxious to locate Mrs. Schram in order to procure her testimony. They have been hunting for her two days. Today they discovered that she is in New Jersey, not a great distance from New York.

An official connected with the inquiry said:

"It is true that we sought Mrs. Schram in Boston, but failed to find her. We now understand that she is in another State and we expect to interview her there. We simply want her in the capacity of a witness, and we are very eager to hear her story."

Lived in South End.

Mrs. Schram is a few years younger than Mrs. Shevlin. There are one or two other sisters.

AN AMERICAN reporter found that Mr and Mrs. Schram had been living since Christmas in a lodging house on West Springfield street. They occupied two basement rooms. The landlady said:

I have every reason to believe that Mr. and Mrs. Schram went to New York when they moved their effects from here. They paid their rent promptly. Mr. Schram, who I learned was Mrs. Schram's second husband, worked for a firm near Scollay square. He was industrious.

Mrs. Schram seldom went out. She had no employment. They didn't seem overburdened with money. Reports that Mrs. Schram wore fashionable clothes are not true. She dressed very simply.

While they were here Mr. and Mrs. Shevlin often visited them.

Mr. Shevlin did not appear to be well. His wife, as I remember her, is a very attractive young woman, a few years older than Mrs. Schram, who was about thirty-eight. I understood Mrs. Schram had children by her first husband, but they did not live here.

I don't know why they went to New York. Perhaps Mr. Schram had business there. I believe they lived there before.

Five years ago Mrs. Schram married Nicholas Schram, who is about her own age. It is expected that Mrs. Schram will be summoned as a witness before the Grand Jury, which will convene next Tuesday.

Chief John E. Wilkie of the United States Treasury agents is conferring in Washington today with Secretary McAdoo of the United States Treasury. Wilkie left Boston on the 1 a. m. train Thursday. He is expected to return in a few days.

United States District Attorney Asa P. French, who has just taken charge of the case preliminary to submitting the evidence to the Federal Grand Jury, made three very important points in a public statement about the smuggling, namely:

That a great many persons are involved in the conspiracy.

That the government was robbed of many thousands of dollars annually for a period of ten years by a system of evasion of duties on personal baggage when ocean liners arrived at East Boston and Charlestown.

That although the government has collected much evidence and will submit it to the Grand Jury next week, the officials working on the case have met with many obstacles and have had anything but an easy time of it harvesting facts.

Denial by Mrs. Mellody.

Mrs. Alice Mellody, wife of Honey Mellody, the prize fighter, who was quizzed by the United States District Attorney about some jewelry presented to her by her husband on one of their trips abroad, said today she had told the Federal officials all she knew of her friends, the Shevlins.

"I never used a government 'sticker,' she declared with a smile. "I never profited from the result of any smuggling. I had nothing whatever to do with smuggling. All that I knew I told, and I have nothing to conceal from the authorities.

"I am distantly related to Mrs. Shevlin, who is Lena Bradley's sister. Lena and I never got on well together. Lena and I once went four years without speaking to each other.

"I do not think that the government officials will object if I say that the talk about Mr. Mellody making frequent trips abroad and returning with diamonds, was distorted. I am sure he never went abroad but once, and then I went along too. We went to Paris. We had some diamonds going over. Upon returning, the only additional jewelry we possessed was a diamond heart. Beyond this correction, I shall not speak, for I have been cautioned by the authorities and my attorney in this regard.

"Lena Bradley and Mrs. Nicholas Schram are the same. Nicholas Schram is from the old country. I do not know his nationality or his business. When Lena has left Boston from time to time I have supposed she was in New York. Certainly I do not know her present whereabouts."

LYNN MAN IN POOR HEALTH TRIES SUICIDE

Mrs. Eugenie Hubbard heard a shot at her home, No. 26 Harvest street, Lynn, today, and found her son, Benjamin F. Hubbard, thirty years old, dying in his room from a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. Doctors say the young man cannot live. He broke down from overwork last December and tried at that time to kill himself with illuminating gas.

Hubbard was formerly a bookkeeper in the General Electric Company's Lynn office. When his health gave out last December and he had to give up work, he would rave about figures, adding and subtracting in his head and otherwise showing how his work remained in his mind.

May Cut Tariff on Women's Hose by 50 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Women's seamless and fashioned cotton hose are receiving attention from the tariff makers. Every time the tariff is revised there is more or less excitement created over women's hose. It has been represented to the Ways and Means Committee that the makers of hose do not need the protection of a seventy-five per cent. rate. They have practically decided therefore that a rate of forty per cent would afford all the protection needed and at the same time give some advantage to wearers.

COLLECTORS CAN'T GET THEIR PAY

BROCKTON, April 4.—Brockton has two tax collectors, but City Auditor J. Frank Coffey says he will not pay either of them until he has obtained legal advice on the matter. Tax Collector Elroy Sherman Thompson, Republican, held over till the deadlock was broken when Carrol B. Deady was chosen. Deady did not qualify until this week. He can collect only the water bills, while Thompson is held responsible by the State Tax Commissioner for the other taxes. Consequently both are on the job.

TOO MANY 'GRINDS' IN HIGH SCHOOLS

SPRINGFIELD, April 4.—Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of Smith College, in an address here declared that there are too many "grinds" in high schools of Massachusetts. He said the schools are crowding more studies on the pupils than the time allows, and that is limiting the chances of the pupils for getting into the colleges and universities. Dr. Burton said there should be greater elasticity and flexibility in the requirements for entrance to colleges.

80 "NEVER TO MARRY" FIGHT FOR EXISTENCE

Eighty young men and women, members of the Harmony Club of Malden, are today bringing argument to bear upon parental influence to permit the club to continue existence, for the club motto, "Never to Marry" has aroused the ire of some of the fond papas and mammas. One matron declared she would ask Mayor Charles Schumaker to use his influence to break up the organization.

Not until the first anniversary of the club yesterday did the secret of the club motto leak out. At the meeting each member was presented a neat motto card bearing the words, "Never to Marry," and this motto each one placed in a conspicuous place in his home. It is this ever present reminder of the vows taken by each member upon initiation which has aroused parental ire.

True to Their Vows.

There are many other vows which the members take upon initiation. One is to refuse all mate except, despite the intrigues of the hour. Another is that young men shall not call upon the young women, only meeting others of the club at the regular club meetings. Still another vow prevents the young women from entertaining gentlemen callers other than relatives.

It was nearly midnight when the first annual meeting was over. The night was dark and stormy. To test the young women's sincerity in their vows, several of the young men members of the club volunteered to escort the gentler sex to their homes. Their offer was indignantly spurned. At roll call each of the eighty members answered to their names and declared that they had kept their initiation promises, for that year at least, of "Never to Marry."

Nearly 100 Members Now.

Starting with the membership of twenty members, the club has at each meeting initiated many new advocates of its motto until the membership now nears the 100 mark. Even the strenuous initiation given the candidates has not prevented the club from increasing in size by leaps and bounds.

The officers of the club are: President, Edward Dunn; vice-president, Miss May Dillon; secretary, Miss Abby Curran; treasurer, Miss Katherine Harris.

BIG BEEF SHIPMENT MENACED BY FIRE

BUENOS AYRES, April 4.—Fire was still raging today in the refrigerating plant of the Blanca Company, now the property of Armour & Co., Chicago packers, and it was feared that the 70,000 carcasses there awaiting shipment would be destroyed, which would bring the total loss up to $1,425,000.

CALL DEALERS IN PROVIDENCE ICE INQUIRY

PROVIDENCE, April 4.—Councilman Jeremiah O'Connell, chairman of the special council committee investigating the alleged ice monopoly, questioned many independent dealers and many consumers today, preparatory to a resumption of the committee's inquiry next Tuesday. Witnesses will be subpoenaed for the hearing.

The points which interested the chairman particularly were whether the Providence Ice Company has an actual monopoly of the ice business here, whether the arbitrary increase in the price is necessary and what its effect on the poor will be in the hot Summer months.

DODGE DIVORCE PLEA REFUSED BY THE COURT

Judge King in the Suffolk Divorce Court today dismissed the divorce suit of Frank W. Dodge of Boston against Maud E. Dodge. The case has been before the court for several days. Judge King in dismissing the suit said the couple were married in Rhode Island for the purpose and with the intent of evading the laws of Massachusetts which forbade the woman to wed again until the expiration of two years from date of her divorce from her first husband, George E. Spear. Therefore, Judge King said, the marriage was void in Massachusetts.

The couple were married seventeen years ago, soon after Mrs. Dodge's first husband, George E. Spear, obtained a divorce from her. In his suit, Dodge named Spear as corespondent.

It is also said that he has brought a suit for $20,000 damages against Spear, alleging alienation of Mrs. Dodge's affections.

Cora E. Spear, divorced wife of Spear, has also brought a suit for $5,000 against Mrs. Dodge, on the same allegation.

Frank W. Dodge, Jr., the sixteen-year-old son of the couple, created a sensation by his testimony in court today. He had been brought from Central Falls, R. I., to testify in favor of his father, but he surprised everyone by testifying for his mother. While he was testifying that his father had not taken good care of the mother, Mrs. Dodge fainted and had to be carried from the courtroom. The court then took a recess and Judge King afterward announced his finding, dismissing the suit.

Young Dodge testified that his father made his mother sweep the garden, and that while they lived in Arizona his father provided nothing for them to eat but beans, three times a day. He said:

"When he got mad at mother he would lick me with a razor strop. He would bring in two eggs and boil them and eat them himself and never ask my mother if she were hungry. He was never like a father to me. He took my mother and me to places in Arizona, California and Mexico, but never to places where I could learn. He never cared whether we had anything to eat or not.

Hold Man Whose Conscience Led Him to Surrender

Charles Haynes, who gave himself up to the Lynn police because his conscience troubled him, was turned over to the Boston police and will be arraigned in court today. He walked up to Captain William H. Rowe at Lynn police headquarters and said:

I stole $300 from W. A. Stevens of Boston last October; my conscience has been troubling me ever since, and I want to be locked up.

FIREMEN WILL BE ARRESTED FOR LOOTING

Several arrests of members of the Boston Fire Department are near in connection with the looting of the offices of the Braman, Dow Company following the four-alarm fire in the company's Causeway street building on the night of February 20. This statement was made by an official in the investigation of the looting of the offices.

The same official stated that the arrests will number less than "half a dozen." The inquiries into the robberies were continued today, and officials of the Fire Department interviewed persons who claimed to have seen the assorted firemen looting the offices. It is expected the evidence will be laid before District Attorney Pelletier for action.

"The investigation is going to be pushed to the limit," said one of the officials. "We intend to clear the honest members of the department from any charges affecting the good name of the Boston Fire Department."

The investigation was started following the extensive exposure in last Sunday's AMERICAN of how the Braman, Dow Company's desks had been cleaned out and how wholesale thefts had been committed. The looting was originally put up to the Boston Protective Department, but he charges were found to be baseless and the Protective firemen were cleared of all blame. Today it became known that it was firemen in the Boston Fire Department who are accused of robbing the offices.

DEATH SUSPECT IS RUN DOWN BY GIRL DETECTIVE

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 4.—Pale and trembling and evidently on the verge of nervous collapse, Joseph Moriarity alias William J. Leehan, who was arrested in Fort Lee, N. J., last night, charged with the murder of Mrs. Charles L. Turner of Lakewood, on April 26, 1911, was today transferred to Toms River, N. J., and lodged in the Ocean County jail.

Moriarity, who was born at Manchester, N. H., and once employed as private secretary in the home of E. M. Horne of Pittsburgh, Pa., has a wife and child living in White Plains, N. Y. The prisoner is reported by Raymond Schindler, head of the Schindler Detective Agency, to have made a partial confession. The arrest of Moriarity after an investigation which has lasted nearly two years was chiefly brought about through the efforts of a girl detective, Miss Helen Schindler, who to gain the confidence of the suspected man went to live in the same rooming house in White Plains where Mr. and Mrs. Moriarity lived. To gain greater freedom the girl detective pretended to be a playwright so she could stay up late at night.

During the past few months Private Detective George Jamison took Miss Schindler's place, as the trail began to get hot. It was Jamison who persuaded Moriarity to go with him from White Plains to Fort Lee, yesterday.

MEMORY COMES BACK, GIRL TO WED TOMORROW

Lillian Mason, the seventeen-year-old New York girl who lost her memory on Washington street while buying her trousseau, has been found at the Chardon street Home by her fiance, Frank Frost of No. 38 East Springfield street, and their wedding will take place tomorrow, as they had planned. Miss Mason's memory came back to her after eight hours as suddenly as it fled and she was able to give the authorities Frost's address. He hurried to the home, for he had been anxiously searching for her.

Frost, who is a painter, and Miss Mason were to have been married at her home in New York last month, but he unexpectedly found himself out of work. Ten days ago he came to Boston, and after a few days secured work.

Miss Mason came here on Monday, and the two then learned for the first time of the law requiring a residence of five days before a marriage license may be issued. Eager to help her prospective husband, Miss Mason got work in a millinery store. Yesterday she set out to make her purchases during her lunch hour. Suddenly her memory went back on her and she appealed to a policeman.

When the police of station 5 notified Frost of Miss Mason's situation he hastened, with his landlady, to the Chardon street home.

IN AGONY WITH CHAPPED HANDS

Called Salt Rheum. Skin Red and Inflamed. Hand Would Itch and Burn. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured Hands.

167 West Spring St., Winooski, Vt.—"I commenced to have chapped hands and they were getting worse. They called it salt rheum. The skin was so red and inflamed that I used to put my hand to my face and could feel the heat that came out of it. I could not put my hand in cold water; it would burn just as if it had been vinegar. It would itch and burn and if I rubbed it the skin would come off and it would feel a thousand times worse. Some nights I could not sleep, my hand burned so I had to move it on the pillow to get a cool place. I suffered terribly. The inside of my hand was raw to the bone. There was a spell I could not use my hands.

"I suffered twelve years something awful, then a friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bought some Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in less than a month after I commenced using them my hands were just as well as if I had never had any sore hands. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my hands almost three years ago and they are still all right." (Signed) Mrs. Frank Barber, Oct. 14, 1912.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold by dealers throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient when all else has failed. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

FOSS REFUSES TO ANSWER ON FOURTH TERM

Governor Foss when asked by the AMERICAN today if he were ready for "a fourth piece of pie" by becoming the Democratic candidate for Governor this Fall refused to commit himself.

The Governor, however, spoke as if such a contingency was not impossible.

"Governor," queried the reporter, "is it true or is it not that you will be a candidate for a fourth term?

The Governor did not answer.

Question Is Repeated.

The reporter repeated the question in other wording.

"Governor, if the Democratic party should require your services the coming Fall; if the rank and file of the party should express their desire that you should become a candidate, would you take the nomination?"

At this the Governor smiled and said: "Oh, you shouldn't ask me such questions. I'm very busy. I have a lot of documents here I've got to dispose of. I've got other important work on hand.

"I haven't given the matter any consideration, practically. It is a question which one cannot answer offhand."

"A Broad Conclusion."

"Well, Governor, is the interpretation made by the morning newspapers of your speech at the Mitchell rally yesterday afternoon, namely, that you expressed a desire again to be Governor, correct?"

The Governor replied:

"Oh, I don't think my words justified such a broad conclusion."

The reporter queried again:

"Do you mean to say you do not care to be Governor again?"

"I'd rather not discuss this matter," replied the Governor. "I've got a lot of work to attend to. Good morning."

HAMMERSTEIN'S CHARGES ROUSE IRE IN PARIS

By CHARLES HENRY MELTZER.

PARIS, April 4.—Cabled reports of Oscar Hammerstein's attack on the morality of foreign operatic artists in his address to the Women's Press Club of New York, have resulted in a riot here.

"I really don't know whether to laugh or get angry at Mr. Hammerstein's statements," said Vanni Marcoux, the well-known baritone, lately of the Boston Opera House, today when I interviewed him.

"The prejudice against stage people among the so-called 'good elements' of society is often hard to endure, but when Oscar Hammerstein joins the crusaders against the supposedly immorality surrounding the stage, one feels relieved for an element of humor is added to the situation.

"I have sung the world over and say unreservedly that, whether they be European or American, the average moral status of artists does not vary an iota."

Anna F. Pavlova, the popular dancer, who reappeared for the first time last night at the new Paris Opera House, said:

"So far as my experience goes, the moral atmosphere of American opera houses compares favorably with that of European lyric theatres and the morality of opera houses in general is quite as good as that in other places."

Lucienne Breval, leading soprano at the Paris Opera House said, with a disdainful shrug of her shoulders: "If your American singers take back good votes after studying here, as Mr. Hammerstein admits, they take all the public has a right to require of them in opera. Their private life concerns none but themselves."

M. Lalo, the most dreaded music critic in Paris, quite agreed with Mlle. Breval. "Mr. Hammerstein's idea of founding an English opera house with American singers is excellent," said he, "but why should he insult the foreign artists?"

Pavlova will return to America for an extended tour next August with Novikof, the leading male dancer of Moscow, and thirty supporting artists. She will open her season with three performances at the Metropolitan Opera House.

400 AT BANQUET GIVEN IN HONOR OF S. W. M'CALL

Four hundred citizens of Massachusetts, irrespective of party, did honor to Samuel Walker McCall, for twenty years Congressman from Massachusetts, at a banquet to him in Hotel Somerset. A message from ex-President Taft was received. Mr. McCall made the feature speech of the evening.

QUINCY FIRE RUINS OLD METAL FOUNDRY

Fire, believed to have been set, which the police are investigating, destroyed the metal foundry on the estate of the late Colonel Abner D. Packard, on Cottage street in Quincy square. The loss is about $1,200. The fire removed a landmark of the city which was erected in 1850, and has been in active use ever since.

SCHOONER LOST IN GULF OF MEXICO

MOBILE, Ala., April 4.—A dispatch received here today told of the loss of three-masted schooner Pendleton Brothers, under command of Captain Bunker, off Southwest Pass Reef, in a heavy gale. The vessel was bound for Philadelphia with a cargo of yellow pine lumber.

ANNA PAVLOWA, Russian danseuse, who declares Hammerstein's charges against morals of European artists are unfounded.

PAY MILITARY HONOR TO BODY OF J. P. MORGAN

HAVRE, France, April 4.—Military honors were paid today to the memory of J. Pierpont Morgan, when the body of the financier arrived from Rome. The special funeral train reached Havre at 5:45 o'clock.

The deputy prefect of the Seine Inferieure received the body and it was transferred an hour later to the French liner France, which will sail tomorrow for New York. Twenty thousand people saw the transfer of the body to the steamship.

As the coffin was transferred from the train to the steamship the military honors due Mr. Morgan's rank as one of the commanders of the Legion of Honor were paid by troops drawn from the local garrison.

Winning Suffrage 'Feels Like Falling in Love,' Says Leader

ST. LOUIS, April 4.—Mrs. Jeannette O. Ferris, of Michigan, declared today that when the early returns indicated that the suffrage amendment had carried in her State, "it felt like falling in love, being converted and coming into a fortune all at one time."

Mrs. Ferris also told the Mississippi Valley Suffrage Conference that woman suffrage fraudulently was counted out in the November election in her State.

"Don't thank the people for contributing to the cause," said Mrs. Maude Wood Park of Boston. "Make them feel that it is an honor to be permitted to help."

WOMAN LAWYER MAY DEFEND HAYWOOD

PATERSON, N. J., April 4.—Miss Jessie Achley, a New York lawyer, will defend, if necessary, William D. Haywood, leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, at a hearing to be given him today on the charge of unlawful assemblage for which he is being held in the Paterson, N. J., jail.

NON-PARTISAN MEAL PLANNED BY MRS. AYRES

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The much-discussed breakfast will be given tomorrow by Mrs. Steven B. Ayres, president of the Woman's National Democratic League, but she insists it will be strictly non-partisan.

"It is not to be a Democratic breakfast; it was never intended as such and was not announced as such," said Mrs. Ayres.

Mrs. Champ Clark's refusal to attend under the impression that it was a partisan meal attracted national attention to the affair.

Mrs. Ayres declared that she is not acting as president of the Woman's National Democratic League but as Mrs. Stevens B. Ayres, one of the social leaders of Washington.

FRANCE FREES BALLOON CREW FROM GERMANY

LUNEVILLE, France, April 4.—Upon orders from the Minister of War, the German Zeppelin balloon "Z 4," which landed near here yesterday, was released today, and the members of the crew were also set free. Captain George Frtik, commander of the balloon, set men to work at once repairing the motor defects, and said he would be most careful during flights in the future to avoid crossing the frontier.

An attempt was made early today by incendiaries to destroy the balloon. The presence of French soldiers guarding the airship prevented its destruction.

Fanny Crosby Writes Poem to Helen Keller

NEW YORK, April 4.—Helen Keller, who has become proficient enough in speech to turn lecturer, in spite of total deafness and total blindness since infancy, has received word from Fanny Crosby, the poet and hymn writer, that unless the unforeseen intervenes she will appear in public at the Hudson Theatre next Thursday afternoon, when Miss Keller will speak for the benefit of the Golden Rule Alliance of America, the home for blind girls, of which Miss Crosby is president.

Miss Crosby is ninety-three, but enjoys perfect health, except that she has become wholly blind. She lives in Bridgeport, and must make the trip from that city here in order to attend the benefit. In her acceptance of the invitation she enclosed the following verses:

There is a chain that links my soul to thine;
I may not clasp thy gentle hand in mine,
And yet in thought each other we may greet,
And spend this day in converse pure and sweet.

I met thee once, 'twas many years ago,
And yet its memories like a fountain flow;
I hear thy voice, as then its tones I heard,
And fond affection clings to every word.

God keep thee still beneath His watchful care,
And strew thy path with buds and blossoms rare;
When other hearts their tribute bring to thee,
Oh, let me ask that mine received may be.

FUND TO HELP FLOOD VICTIMS GROWS DAILY

The Humanity Tax is growing daily and the AMERICAN readers are responding nobly to the aid of the flood sufferers in the stricken districts.

What awful damage and hardships were caused is brought home to Boston and New England people by the pitiful story of the aged village blacksmith and his wife, whose home was wrecked and the savings of a lifetime swept away at Fort Edward, N. Y.

It is cases like these that are being told to the AMERICAN Relief Bureau at Winthrop square every day. The AMERICAN wants to help these people. It knows its readers are anxious to aid.

Such cases are being investigated post haste by AMERICAN representatives. If the cases are found deserving immediate relief is sent. But there are so many of them and the funds being contributed can do only so much. There is plenty of chance for the AMERICAN'S readers to come forward with the Humanity Tax for the sufferers.

Need Help at Once.

The need of the people in the stricken districts is immediate. Help sent today will mean much more than weeks from now.

The AMERICAN is doing its share in the speedy distribution of its readers' funds and the investigation of needy and deserving chances for relief.

Yesterday AMERICAN readers came through with just the things needed for clothing. The James W. Brine Company, Harvard outfitters, sent in a box of 107 sweaters. These were forwarded to the AMERICAN relief stations in the stricken districts, where they will bring great comfort to the sufferers chilled by the cold.

E. A. Sanouett of No. 21 Houston avenue, Milton, remembered the needs of the women and children and sent in a box of clothing for them.

The list of contributions received yesterday is:

Contributions Yesterday.

One case containing 107 jersey sweaters from James W. Brine Company, Harvard outfitters, Cambridge.

One lot of women's and children's clothes from E. A. Sanouett, No. 21 Houston av., Milton.

One box clothing. No name.

Two bundles of canvas goods from S. S. Pierce Company.

One bundle of clothing from J. F. Barnett, No. 1003 Beacon st., Brookline.

HOME of flood victim in Fort Edward, N. Y. R. E. Turney of Cambridge, son of an aged blacksmith and his wife, has just received a photograph of how his parents' home appeared as waters rose.

One piece of clothing, value $1, from A Friend. Two boxes of clothing. No names.

Two bundles women's and children's shoes. No name.

One bundle containing nine women's coats from Mr. L. Albert, No. 55A Charter st., Boston.

The Humanity Tax still comes in in gratifying quantity. Yesterday's contributions totaled several hundred dollars. In addition to the money contributions chronicled are large quantities of clothing, most of it practically new. One concern has sent in a case of sweaters, a very acceptable contribution. The final now stands:

'MAY NOT RUN AGAIN,' MAYOR SAYS IN CAPITAL

Mayor Fitzgerald may not be a candidate for another term, believing it is time he should retire, according to a Washington dispatch.

In a Washington interview he is quoted as saying:

I have been a very busy man, as Mayor, and I need rest, and besides, I want to retire well fixed, with everybody sorry I am going, rather than go on being Mayor until I am kicked out. One can go to the well too often, and then, perhaps, they might miss me when I am not Mayor and insist on my going back the next time and that might not be unpleasant or irreshittble.

The Mayor got into communication with Mr. Tumulty, secretary to the President, but did not see Presidem Wilson, who was out driving.

At Washington the Mayor advised the Democratic leaders not to commit themselves too quickly on the tariff bill. He also took up some patronage matters.

In connection with the Mayor's accredited declaration, it is interesting to note that Congressman James M. Curley has just declared:

I feel that Roxbury should have one of its sons chief executive of our city, and if the occasion presents itself I shall endeavor to bring honor to the district in that office. If Mayor Fitzgerald once gives me his word that he will not again be a candidate for the place, I'll do my part to succeed him.

SERIOUS CHARGE FILED AGAINST U. S. SENATOR

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The tongue of gossip was set wagging in legislative circles today when charges of a grave character involving immorality were filed with District Attorney Wilson against a Democratic member of the Senate whose conduct may be investigated by the Senate itself unless the Grand Jury takes prior action. The Senator in question is influential in the new administration and the whispered accusations have created a profound sensation.

It can be stated that the accused Senator is from a State approximately 500 miles south southwest of Chicago.

The woman in the case and two male witnesses are said to have furnished the District Attorney with formal accusations against the Senator in question. District Attorney Wilson has the matter under investigation.

SOCIETY SEES 'PANDORA'S BOX' AT OPERA HOUSE

Society is expected to be out again in force tonight at the second presentation of "Pandora's Box," a Greek pantomime, at the Boston Opera House. The Grecian dance, led by Mrs. Alexander H. Higginson, a well-known society woman, whose reappearance on the stage as a fancy dancer has aroused great enthusiasm, is one of the features.

Mrs. Higginson's dance as one of the "Rosy Hours" was decidedly the hit of the evening. It was the first opportunity which Boston society has had of seeing her on the stage since her retirement when she married Mr. Higginson, son of Major Henry L. Higginson, the prominent Boston banker, and retired, as she said, to life on her country estate to be known no more as Jean Calducci.

It is through the blandishments of the "Rosy Hours," led by Mrs. Higginson, that Pandora herself, a statue when first revealed, is warmed to life. Her dance was performed after the Greek fashion, with flowing robes and sandaled feet in graceful motion, and won generous and prolonged applause.

The play is a story dance in three episodes, given for the benefit of the Sharon Sanatorium.

The cast is as follows: Iris, Mrs. George H. Root; Pandora, Miss Elizabeth Letherman; Zephaestus, Dowse Dunham; Hermes, Miss Pauline Chamberlain; Hera, Miss Eleanor Cotton; Athena, Miss Mary E. Vaughan; Artemis, Miss Hope Thacher; Aphrodite, Miss Lilian Cotton; Epimetheus, Miss Louise Dixon; Hope, Miss Harriet S. Jaques.

Players: Mrs. Henry B. Scott, Mrs. Harry Livermore, Mrs. Henry D. Tudor, Mrs. J. W. Farley, Mrs. Fritz B. Talbot, Mrs. Charles G. Mixter, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Jr., and Miss Susanna R. Dabney.

Group of Playmates: Miss Frederika Paine, Miss Sarah W. Bliss, Miss Dorothy Howard, Miss Maurice Eaton, Miss Elizabeth Bigelow, Miss Leslie Fuller, Miss Muriel Crocker, Miss Louise Whiting, Miss Helen Nesmith, Miss Eugenia Meigs, Miss Ruth Burke, Miss Betty Drew, Miss Martha Ryther, Miss Mignonne Ryther, Miss Isabel Nesmith, Miss Edith King, Miss Daphne Dunbar, Miss Ellis Phinney, Miss Isabel Hunt, Miss Agnes MacDonald, Miss Charlotte Bunnell, Miss Katharine Edgett, Miss Oral Wheatley, Miss Katharine Fiske, Mrs. C. Mayor's Clothes Fit Sons so They Annex Wardrobe

Now that the two sons of Mayor Fitzgerald have grown to man's estate—and size—the Mayor declares he has trouble nearly every morning in dressing himself as a Mayor should dress.

The trouble is that his boys, now larger than he is, have developed a love of the Mayor's haberdashery, and are beginning to affect his collars and ties and gloves, and other things.

Occasionally, says the Mayor, he manages to get back at them by annexing some of their choicest fine linen, but he has to get up early to do this, and there is always a comeback, for they ransack the Mayor's wardrobe, and usually secure two, three and four-fold what their father has succeeded in wresting from them.

IN SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

WHAT IS GOOD TO EAT TODAY IN THE MARKET

The less common varieties of fish are cheaper and more plentiful at present than they have been for several months, and the fish markets of the city are offering a great variety of dishes at very reasonable prices. Roe shad, large, fine fish, are selling for ninety cents each, and the roes sell for fifty cents a pair, about half what they sold for during Lent.

Jack shad sell for seventeen cents a pound, good smelts for twenty-five cents a pound, shoal halibut for twenty-five cents a pound, Cape bluefish for seventeen cents a pound, brook trout for seventy-five cents a pound and the commoner varieties, like cod, haddock, hake and pollock for eight to twelve cents a pound.

The antics of the butter market during the past week may not have been brought to the attention of housewives, as the retail prices did not fluctuate to the same extent that the wholesale and jobbing prices did, but the peculiar conditions are shown by the fact that certain cutprice butter stores were selling Western butter at retail for thirty-seven cents on the same day that jobbers were asking corner grocers to pay forty cents for the same stock. The wholesale prices have again settled back to about the point where they were before the floods, which were assigned as the cause for the fluctuation in prices.

Increasing quantities of maple, sugar and syrup are coming into the Boston markets and prices are about on the level that will be maintained during the season. Maple sugar sells for twenty to twenty-five cents a pound and syrup for $1.40 per gallon.

Green vegetables, say the market men say, have never been so cheap and plentiful in Boston at this season of the year as they are today.

The floods have held back foodstuffs of many kinds and during the past week there have been great changes in prices of poultry, meats and eggs, but the market is steadier now and prices are about normal.

BRING WREN BACK IN MURDER CASE

HALIFAX, April 4.—John Wren, charged with the murder of John Stewart Hamilton near Keene, N. H., several weeks ago, is being brought to Keene today by Sheriff Lord and Chief of Police Philbrick of Keene. Wren, who was one of a section gang of the Boston & Maine railroad, and is charged with murdering Foreman Hamilton, has been kept here awaiting the arrival of extradition papers from Ottawa, issue of which had been withheld pending the result of habeas corpus proceedings.

Starve to Death, Doctor's Anti-fat Advice to Girls

FITCHBURG, April 4.—Girls, do you want to get thin?

If you do, here's the sure anti-fat cure given by Dr. Atherton P. Mason, local city bacteriologist:

Starve to death.

One of the pretty City Hall woman clerks asked the doctor how she could "get slim."

"If you want to get fat, why eat," said the doctor. "Eat butter and stuff like that."

"Oh, doctor, but you misunderstand me. It's just the other way," said the young woman clerk. "I want to get thin."

"Then starve to death," said Dr. Mason.

Have Color In Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets gil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after-effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

BEULAH MILLER OFFERED $300 IN PSYCHIC TEST

NEW YORK, April 4.—A reward of $300 has been offered by the Metropolitan Psychical Society to the parents of Beulah Miller, a ten-year-old school girl of Warren, R. I., if they will permit her to perform before its committee the remarkable clairvoyant feats described in a report of the mind-reading exhibition she recently gave to Dr. John D. Quackenbos, the famous psychologist.

The child amazed Dr. Quackenbos with what he called a marvelous display of psychic power. In his report he told how the girl had puzzled him by calling off cards selected under circumstances of which she had no knowledge, by describing hidden objects in his pockets, by telling the exact ages of those present and by naming at first try numbers they had decided upon while she was out of sight and hearing.

In the circular explaining the nature and purpose of the reward the officials of the society concluded with the following:

"If the girl can do the things credited to her by Dr. Quackenbos, assuming that the reports are reliable, it is a serious matter.

"If she cannot, the matter is even more serious; for how shall we explain Dr. Quackenbos."

TELEGRAPHERS WILL APPEAL TO MELLEN

Conferences between Manager W. H. Wright of the Boston Terminal Company, controlling the South station and vicinity, and the wage and arbitration committee of the towermen and telegraphers employed by it, failed to bring about a satisfactory agreement. The men's committee announced that they would appeal to President Mellen for a final decision.

ARMY MEN BACK FROM CRISTOBAL

NEW YORK, April 4.—Among those who arrived here today on the liner Anton from Cristobal were Congressman Carl Hayden of Arizona, Lieutenant-General B. M. Young and Captain R. R. Raines, W. E. Caples and C. H. Knight of the United States Army.

STRIKE IN OHIO QUARRY.

AMHERST, Ohio., April 4.—Nine hundred men employed in the quarries of the Cleveland Stone Company near here are on strike for a uniform scale of twenty-five cents an hour and a ten hour work day.

BEULAH MILLER, the Warren, R. I., girl who is said by some to possess remarkable psychic powers.

PAUL MIMART, OF THE SYMPHONY, IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Discord in the family life of Paul Mimart of the Symphony Orchestra, one of the world's famous clarinetists, is revealed in the notice of a hearing to be held soon on the petition of his wife, also a musician, for alimony pending a hearing on her divorce suit. Mimart was induced to come here from Paris by Dr. Karl Muck, director of the Symphony.

Mrs. Mimart charges cruel and abusive treatment. The papers were originally filed in Dedham, but were immediately brought to the office of the clerk of the Suffolk Superior Court for a hearing on a petition for alimony.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN QUARANTINE

Transfer of the quarantine service for the port of Boston from state to federal control is not expedient at this time, is the finding of the Committee on Maritime Affairs of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. The report was confirmed by the Committee on Public Health Laws of the same organization, both reports being accepted and approved by the directors.

PEACE IS NEAR IN PHONE GIRLS' WAGE DEMAND

All danger of an immediate strike by the 2,200 girl members of the Boston Telephone Operators' Union is said to have been eliminated, as a result of a six-hour conference between P. L. Spalding, president of the N. E. T. & T. Co., and a committee of nine girls from the union, as urged by the AMERICAN editorially.

Preliminary reports of this conference are made at a meeting of the girls' union at No. 7 Warrenton street, this evening. Similar action is taken at another meeting this afternoon, and the final report made at a mass meeting in Wells Memorial Hall tonight. But, while the girls are all smiles, indicating perfect satisfaction with the outlook, no official statement of the changed situation will be made public until after tonight's meetings.

President Spalding of the company stood after the conference that he met a committee of nine operators, employes of the company, who presented for his consideration certain requests calling for changes in wages and employment. He replied by stating that he would take the requests for changes under serious advisement.

Leblanc Detective Story in American Magazine Sunday

Everyone likes a good detective story and the best of them all is being told in next Sunday's AMERICAN Magazine by Maurice Leblanc in detailing the absorbingly interesting life of Arsene Lupin, the greatest criminal fiction has yet produced.

The advent of Sherlock Holmes with his marvellous methods of deduction in tracing criminals made it necessary to evolve a type of criminal entirely different from the old, Bill Sykes, swashbuckling order.

In Arsene Lupin, Maurice Leblanc has created one of the most dare-devil criminals. He is of the polished, artistic type one would expect to find in Paris coping with the wonderful system of crime detection perfected by the Parisian police.

Lupin is the paragon of modern Raffles, and in the ease with which he eludes the clever Parisian detectives and gains the confidence of high police officials whom he uses in furthering his own criminal advantages he is without a peer in the annals of fiction.

This absorbing story, "The Crystal Stopper," is only one of the many prepared for Sunday AMERICAN readers in one of the best issues of the best Sunday magazine published with a Sunday newspaper.

Leave your order with your newsdealer early, if you will want this magazine of the Sunday AMERICAN.

MAINE MAN FLAYS MELLEN B. & M. RULE

AUGUSTA, Me., April 4.—President Mellen of the New Haven spent money like a drunken man to monopolize the railroad business between Aroostook county and New York, declared Representative Scates of Westbrook, a Democratic leader, in the House of Representatives today.

"Mellen has spent enough money to build a railroad from Boston to San Francisco," continued the Representative from Westbrook. "The people be damned' policy might have gone twenty-five years ago, but it does not go today.

"The Boston & Maine Railroad has paid the last dividend it will pay for years to come. When the Maine Central went under the control of the Boston & Maine and so the New Haven, it was on fine a system as there is in the country. Its stock was quoted at 200. Today it is down to 103. I am opposed to the present management because it is antagonistic to the people of Maine."

Representative Scates' attack came on the introduction of a resolution by Representative John R. Trimble of Calais condemning the Boston Chamber of Commerce for its attack on the Boston & Maine and putting the Legislature on record as in favor of the present New Haven management.

"This is the way I figure it out about buying clothes at White's," said the speaker.

"There are three types of clothing sellers that I consider.

"THE CUSTOM MAKER—and he's too darn top lofty in his charges for my income.

"THE STORE—with a lot of 'class'—for which you have to pay—and can't wear.

"THE STORE—that gets down to bed rock and 'puts over' the goods with the least overhead charges included in their prices. Some 'fall' for one proposition and some for another.

"Now I want good clothes—all right—need them in my business. But I reasoned it out and went looking

"And I got the surprise of my life—at White's"

"I got there a suit as good as I have been used to paying $35.00 for—and it cost me $25.00. I have a friend in the American Woolen Co. — I showed him the suit and he says the goods are top quality.

"Bill, I'll bet that suit of yours cost you not less than $45.00. COMPARE IT WITH MINE—I can get one suit at White's at $25.00—and save at least $10.00—which will pay for the new hat—AND THEN SOME.

"But I usually buy two suits, so I can alternate while one is being pressed. HENCE I FIGURE I'VE SAVED $20.00 AT WHITE'S—AND YOU HAVE NOTHING ON ME in wear or appearance.

SEE NEW SENSATIONS IN EATON DEATH MYSTERY AS INQUEST IS RESUMED

The fact that the Eaton inquest has never been completed, combined with a statement today by District Attorney Albert F. Barker, combine to indicate that additional sensations will develop in this mysterious murder case.

The district attorney says that the inquest will be resumed, but does not name any date

He does, however, say significantly:

"There is much in the case that the public does not know."

It will be recalled that, when Mrs. Jennie May Eaton was arrested in Hingham on Thursday noon, March 20, the last seat which was being held into the death of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton was abruptly halted.

The inquest was not completed, and Special Justice Edward B. Pratt of the Hingham Court has never made any finding so far. The arrest of Mrs. Eaton on a charge of murdering her husband by poison and the indictment of her on that charge the following week made the public forget the inquest.

Look for New Developments.

It would seem as though the inquest were completed, unless the Plymouth County officials have new and unsuspected channels of investigation

It was supposed that, in due time Judge Pratt would make a finding and the inquest would be closed. But now the District Attorney says the inquest will be still open was mentioned. The District Attorney, whose statements all through this case have been extremely brief, said:

"The Eaton inquest will be resumed, but at just what date I cannot say. It is subject to the call of the District Attorney. There is much in the case that the public does not know yet. At this time I cannot tell it

"Inquest Is Still Open."

State Officer John Scott of Braintree, who has done the chief detective work in the mystery, admitted today that the failure to close the Eaton inquest is a significant circumstance. He said:

"The inquest, which was halted at the arrest of Mrs. Eaton, is still open for a purpose. But I cannot tell the reason for continuing the inquest.

"Search is still going on for any poison container which might have held poison which caused the death of Admiral Eaton, and for any record of poison sale which would apply to this case."

Mysterious Stranger Now.

The State police would like to ascertain the identity of the light-haired man who was at the Eaton home last Sunday evening and again on Tuesday. This man is sometimes referred to as "the mysterious stranger."

Sunday he left the Eaton premises by the "across lots" route, thus escaping the newspaper men

The State police have no right, of course, to hold up people who may merely be going to the Eaton home, where the aged mother and two daughters of the accused woman are, but the officials are quite curious about this latest unknown in the case.

Defence Is Sanguine.

Attorney Francis J. Geegan of Whitman, who is counsel for Mrs. Eaton, with former Senator William A. Morse of Jamaica Plain, presents a most confident and optimistic appearance in the newspaper men on their daily visits.

"The defence is progressing well," he says cheerfully, but he naturally does not go into details for the benefit of the prosecution.

Mr. Geegan and Mr Morse plan to go down to Plymouth jail again early next week to see Mrs. Eaton

Mrs Eaton is busy every day preparing notes on her case, to be ready for the visit of her lawyers She is an early riser. She frequently works over her notes for an hour before breakfast

Prisoner Is Unconcerned.

She is apparently the least concerned and most contented prisoner in the jail. She holds herself aloof from all the other prisoners, and has expressed no interest in their lives or the misfortunes which caused their incarceration

June and Dorothy on their visit brought Mrs. Eaton a pot of fancy work She reads but little, though when she is not busy on her knee

"It is a great privilege to be allowed to exercise in the corridor," said Mrs Eaton to Sheriff Porter today. "I thoroughly appreciate being allowed my morning and afternoon walks

Mrs. Eaton's room looks like a bedroom in a comfortable cottage. She has decorated it with pictures and knick-knacks until it is one of the most cosy rooms at the country farm.

Although always glad to have the matron visit her Mrs. Eaton simply talks courteously and makes no attempt at any confidence. She is carrying out to the letter her counsel's instructions to decline to discuss her case.

MAINE SHERIFF IMPEACHMENT TRIAL OPENED

AUGUSTA Me. April 4 —John W Ballou of Bath, sheriff of Sagadahoc County today faced the joint convention of the Legislature on the charge of failure to enforce the prohibitory liquor law The case comes in the nature of impeachment proceedings After this matter is disposed of will follow the cases of James W Moulton, sheriff of Lincoln County Adelbert J Tolman of Rockland sheriff of Knox County Wilmer W Emerson of Hampden, sheriff of Penobscot County, Herwin H Lowe of Somerset sheriff of Androscoggin County, and William H Hines of Lewiston, county attorney of Androscoggin County. They are all accused of failing to enforce the liquor law

Sheriff Ballou appeared at the State House smiling and apparently happy. He is 80 years of age and has been sheriff of Sagadahoc County for 20 years. When asked if he contemplated resigning he said that he did not He thought that the people had confidence in him as much as he had been elected sheriff of that county year after year

Attorney General Scott Wilson of Portland and Edward C Plummer of Bath represent the state The sheriff is defended by ex-Attorney General William H. Pattangall of Waterville and ex-Judge Frank L. Staples of Bath.

With Admiral Eaton in War Against Spain

By LIEUT. B. B. McG.

A companion in arms of Admiral Eaton, Copyright, 1913, by American, Journal, Examiner. All rights reserved.

That same afternoon the Maine went over to the Spanish two submarine mines with a heavy charge, including three miles of insulated wire These mines were placed in the entrance to Santiago Harbor to be used in the event of the Spanish fleet trying to make an exit

Now comes the most interesting and unforgettable part of the service of the Maine Here were we tied up in the midst of a hostile community surrounded by a great fighting force under Admiral Sampson and in a position as witness to the part Spain plays one of the greatest naval engagements of modern times

There has never been written a page of the part the great battleships played in the modern engagement But the part played by the Resolute unapproved as she was, will always reflect credit on the naval reserve of New Jersey and the officers and officer man who elected her Proof of her personal test of Admiral Eaton and

No better account of the Resolute's part in the engagement can be found than an official report of the commander, which I patched from the Maine to the Resolute and which I found among my self-addressed mail on the arrival of the latter vessel at Guantanamo Bay. Cuba

"July 4, 1898

"I have the honor to make the following report of the operations of this ship on Sunday, July 3

"Arriving off Santiago at 6 a m. I reported in person on board the flagship to the chief of staff and to him received orders to remain in the vicinity until further orders. While going to the northward of the flagship I got pilot on board, and a minute later a 6-inch shell struck about forty feet from the starboard side of the ship, exploding on the water beyond and about her

Making all the speed possible I headed for Antares in order to communicate with the commander in chief Before reaching Antares I met the flagship New York, coming to the westward and communicated to her that the Spanish fleet was coming out and standing to the western part of the line

"Having then received your orders to proceed to Guantanamo, I headed in that direction, signalling to the Harvard as we passed Antares that the Spanish fleet were coming out

"At 10 20, when off Banquil sighted a large peace war ranked a dingy white, with two funnels and two military tops standing to the westward On [illegible] nearer made out what I took to be [illegible] flag together with a signal which I could not read Heading the ship to the southward to pass around him, the stranger put his helm to starboard and apparently stood after us to see Being convinced by this maneuvre on his part that he was an enemy, I at once headed to the westward and ran down to the fleet of auxiliaries, warned them not to [illegible]

"In repassing Antares I also signaled to the Harvard that an enemy was coming from the eastward. Continuing my course to the westward, I crossed the entrance to Santiago Harbor, and the Scorpa battery fired two shots at us, the first from a large gun passed directly over the pilothouse, apparently a six inch shell passed over the forecastle [illegible]

Girls' Undermuslins

When we established this department we found youngsters' drawers were cut with same belt measure both front and back, simply because it took a few inches more material to make them right. But Filene drawers for youngsters are cut to patterns we know are right and comfortable no matter how much more material it takes or whether price is 12½c or $1.25.

This is but an example of differences that make Filene undermuslins appreciated. Styles are exceedingly simple, materials sturdy and trimmings of the good "convent" edge embroideries All of which make tubbing easy and the wear and tear a healthy youngster can give of little consequence.

REPORT EILLS AND DAUGHTER FLEEING WEST

Olga Ellis and her father, the Rev. John Ellis, formerly a Unitarian clergyman at Chicopee, who have been missing from Boston for several weeks, following the decision of the sensational dispute over the child's custody in favor of the mother, are on their way to the Pacific coast together, according to the declaration of a fellow passenger on a train out of Winnipeg, Man., who declares that he recognized them both. A dispatch today to the AMERICAN contains the first clew to their whereabouts since their disappearance.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Crippled-Up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of Croxone Are Taken.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its lame-making pains, when you can easily avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid, and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to reserve the pain. This only prolongs the misery.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this, because it penetrates and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid tant exist in the joints and muscles, to scatch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poison from the blood and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses and you will be surprised how quickly all misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to overcome the worst backache or urinary disorders.

ELEANOR WILSON, daughter of the President, who witnessed the Atlantic fleet battleship practice from the deck of the dreadnaught Wyoming.

Eleanor Wilson Likes Boxing Bout Aboard Battleship

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Miss Eleanor Wilson, daughter of the President, has returned here from Hampton Roads, where she was a spectator of the Atlantic Fleet battleship practice, and had a front seat at a brisk three-round boxing match on the deck of the big dreadnaught Wyoming.

Tom Hirschfield and Walter H. Jones, the prize boxers of the Wyoming, were the principals. Miss Wilson said she enjoyed the bout very much. Six members of the Cabinet also saw the match.

Miss Wilson was also initiated into the mysteries of a "battle royal," a boxing game popular in the navy, between four blindfolded men. The winner is th man who can land the greatest number of blows.

MAYOR'S DANCE, THE 'TUCKER,' MAKES A HIT

Hats off to the Tucker dance.

Never heard of it, say you. Then you could not have attended the Redberries' dance at the Hotel Somerset, where it was introduced to Boston.

The Tucker some begins the tango, the turkey trot, the bunny hug, the grizzly bear, the Texas Tommy and a few others. At least that is what Gus Donovan, Jim Barry, John Leahy, Street Commissioner Jimmy Gallivan, Pat Kennedy and a few other well known social leaders say, and they've tried them all.

Mayor Fitzgerald gets the credit of introducing the Tucker. He may not deserve that honor, but he makes claim, so he modestly accepts the same.

It might be remarked that the "Tucker" is danced to the strains of a dreamy waltz, unlike some other of the newer brand, of terpsichorean novelties.

Here is the official recipe for the Tucker as given by dancing master John F. Fitzgerald:

Get a partner. It doesn't matter whether she is good looking or whether she is accomplished in the art of dancing over the period of a day as long as she is a partner.

Proceed to dance to the waltz music until the call of "Tucker."

Then form in line with your partner and proceed men to the right and women to the left down the hall, saying as you grasp the hand of each dancer, "How do you do?"

At the call of "Tucker" grasp the nearest partner and waltz again until the call of "Tucker."

Those who lose their partners go to the centre of the hall, where new partners are available.

Isn't that simple? It's the latest dance.

It was introduced by the Mayor to liven up the dance of the Redberries and it certainly succeeded. Before the Mayor suggested the new dance everybody was waiting to be formally introduced again and after the "Tucker" had been danced several times, everybody knew each other.

Where did the Mayor get the name? Nobody knows. He promises to disclose the secret at the next dance of the Redberries.

BRIGGS' MEASURE TO LICENSE ROTTEN EGG MEN IS DEFEATED

Alton E. Briggs, executive secretary of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange, has opposed practically every pure food measure before the present Legislature. There is one exceptional bill, championed by Dr. Alexander Burr of the city health department, and designated to license rotten egg dealers and persons engaged in other offensive trades. This bill—the only one Mr. Briggs has favored, of all the food measures presented to the General Court—has been defeated. Cassidy tells the story today.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Alton E. Briggs' lone food bill has been defeated.

The Public Health Committee reported "leave to withdraw," and the House of Representatives has accepted the report.

The bill was heard at one of the recent sessions of the Public Health Committee. Other food bills were up for hearing at the same time. Mr. Briggs had fought all four.

"Mr. Briggs asked Senator Clark, of the committee, 'Is there any food legislation which you favor? So far as my memory goes every food bill before this committee has been opposed by—some one.'

"Yes, sir," shouted Mr. Briggs. "I favor House Bill 1105 to license offensive trades."

And this bill has been defeated.

Why?

The bill is a long one. It is impossible to quote from its provisions at length. The most timely feature is a section providing that any person breaking rotten eggs for use by tanners, must secure a license. Other trades are similarly treated.

Dr. Alexander Burr of the City Health Department favored the bill. This is the stand Dr. Burr who said, in regard to the AMERICAN'S exposures of the traffic in rotten eggs for food purposes in Boston:

"I believe these egg dealers have been badly treated. Spot eggs are all right for food if the spotted part is carefully taken out."

Dr. Burr should know what he is talking about, as is familiar with the situation in the rotten egg-breaking establishments. These proprietors, of course, have a perfect right to break rotten eggs for use by tanners, if they want to. At any rate, Dr. Burr knows more or less about the work.

Therefore, it is all the more infamous for him to advocate the sale of spot eggs for food. Spot eggs are eggs partly rotten. It is the same as if Dr. Burr said: "A bottle may contain a little poison in the bottom, but the water above that poison is all right to drink."

THE EFFECT OF THIS LAW DR. BURR PROPOSED WOULD HAVE BEEN TO GIVE THE ROTTEN EGG DEALER A NEW LOOPHOLE OF ESCAPE IN CASE OF PROSECUTION.

Dr. Burr and Alton E. Briggs were the only ones who favored the bill.

Junius T. Anderson, representing the AMERICAN in the fight for food purity, opposed the bill.

He pointed out that it would serve merely as a cloak for the operations of rotten egg dealers, and brought out some other bad points, in other sections of the bill. He said:

"I would mistrust this measure, even without examining it, when I see the men who are fighting for it. Mr. Briggs has fought against many measures which I know, and which the committee has declared, were designed to help the cause of pure food. Dr. Burr's advocacy is of doubtful value.

"The bill will provide a means of escape for rotten egg dealers accused of breaking rotten eggs for food purposes. It has many other bad points and I believe it should fail to pass."

16-ozs. of Wool to Every Pound of Fabric

A self-respecting sheep would blush with shame if confronted with many of the fabrics that pass as "woolens." Skilful weaving and a lax conscience often permits these fabrics to reach an unsuspecting public in the form of medium and lower priced suits. They may look all right and wear all right—for a while. Then comes the day of reckoning. Cotton—like murder—"will out."

Copyright 1913 The House of Kuppenheimer

No man who buys here need bother his head about this, however. For whatever price you pay for a suit of clothes in this Live Store, you get a strictly pure fabric—unless it be a "silk mixture," which is pure wool plus a certain amount of silk.

But Good Clothes demand more than good fabrics. They must be carefully hand tailored—built with care, skill and honesty, both in the seen and unseen parts—combining good fit and good style with good service. That's our conception of Good Clothes and that's the only kind we deal in.

From lowest price to highest, every garment here carries the Kennedy Guarantee of all wool fabric and complete and lasting satisfaction. Otherwise—new goods or the money back for the asking.

Buck O'Brien Ready for Bell

Sox Will Get Home Monday

By L. R. MURDOCH.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 4.—After two more games of baseball, the Red Sox will start for home. Jake Stahl expects to try Bedient and Hall, the only regular pitchers who have not had a final workout here before he gets away from the University of Illinois. All of the old quintet have been ordered to cut loose here to show if they are fit for the opening of the league season.

Buck O'Brien had his trial yesterday and was the first of the regulars to go the full "derby" distance of nine innings. The trial was a success. O'Brien had everything, including excellent control. He worked his "as ters" when the batters were in a hole and it broke perfectly for him. The old Cuban could not find it. They made but one hit off "Buck."

BEDIENT TO GET TRYOUT TODAY.

The previous day Wood had struck out twelve batsmen in a row is four innings and Collins had let the students down with one scratch hit in five.

Bedient was Stahl's first choice for today. He will be ordered to put on full speed. Larsen, who pitched against the Reds yesterday has only a slow curve and lobbed the ball up to the batters. The champions tried to hit the ball in a high wind and that is why they did not make more hits.

Harry Hooper was the first Sox to start for home. He joined his bride in Chicago last night and is now bound towards Boston. He is due there about 7 a. m. Saturday. Henriksen is playing in the right garden.

Team Due Here Monday.

The rest of the Sox due here Saturday night and will take an early train out of Chicago, arriving in Boston early Monday morning. Gardner passed his first game yesterday since his injury in the second Pittsburgh game, and had no throwing arm responses excitedly.

Leonard is the only man now ailing. He contracted a slight fever coming North but is out for practice every day and will be all right before the Sox return home.

The team, individually, are in better condition than any Boston team ever returned from a Spring training trip before. Wood has so much speed that the Sox batters find other work to do when ever he is pitching to the bench presidents. The are fond of "Smoky Joe" up."

Stahl Among the Absent.

Yesterday and today he could find but a half dozen men who were willing to take a chance and brave the detention of the students who collect daily in the campus stands. Jake Stahl himself was among the absentees.

Jake is a hero in Champaign but he has not yet found a betting rate so he was discreet enough to avoid getting with Wood, desiring to take no care with his reputation.

HARVARD CLASS GAMES RECEIVE A GREAT BOOM

By J. O. JOHNSTONE.
(Champion High Jumper of the United States and Canada.)

J. O. JOHNSTONE

Interclass games of every description are now the hobby of many athletes at Harvard. Every day the stadium and river are crowded with men who are anxious to win honors for their class in the different games.

Lacrosse, baseball and rowing are the principal ones and rowing especially is becoming one of the popular sports among the men.

The Weld boat house has been left vacant by the varsity and freshman eights for some time and the crews of every class are taking advantage of the vacancy.

The races will take place during the middle of next month and the class winning the championship will race with the Yale championship crew over on May 17.

In view of the fact that a man is invited to come out for the varsity crew these races will be an excellent opportunity for the natural oarsmen to show what they can do next year. There is less trouble in securing coaches in this town in this sport.

EXPERTING.

An expert sat beside the ring, and when the fight was done
He took his expert pen in hand and wrote: "McCarty won
He plugged his man as full of holes as if he had a gun."

Another expert saw the fight, and smote an expert smite,
And took his expert pen in hand and wrote in expert style
"It was a cinch for Spike M. Gluke—he won it by a mile."

Another expert took his expert pencil in his paw
And wrote his expert version of the doings that he saw
Quoth he: "It was an even thing the battle was a draw."

A fight fan rose at early dawn, and when his optics fell
Upon the varied expert dope, he yelled a hopeless yell.

MACK'S TEAM AGAIN BEATS PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—The Phillies wasted opportunities to count by poor base path work and the Athletics won the third game of the series 6 to 1. In the matter of hits honors were even at 11, but the Mackmen's singles were rather more lusty than the Phillies and what's more, they were of the timely order.

POOR ATHLETIC MANAGERS HURT TRACK SPORTS

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.
(Quarter-Mile Champion of United States and Canada.)

[illegible] athletic promoters of amateur sports in the country are [illegible] since the [illegible] Games. Time and again the best athletes in the country are hailed before the local associations of the Amateur Athletic Union to answer charges preferred by these promoters who attempt to get even, as they express it, on arrive, for the non appearance of some good athlete after he has been all set and to compete.

When some organization desires to hold an athletic meet, a number of the clubs who claims that [illegible] is affiliated with the [illegible] of amateur athletics, is chosen manager of the meet. He sets about to secure the entry of as many stars as he can afford to get. These athletes are brought from all sections of the country, and, of course, they must receive first class traveling expenses while en route to and from the meet, and must also be given first class accommodations while in the place where they are billed to compete.

Managers Cause Trouble.

If an athlete asks for such expenses from an intelligent management, it is usually granted, but in some cases when a promoter gives an athlete these expenses he generally adds the warning that the A. A. U. would get after him if they found out.

In conversing with several well known athletes I find a unanimous opinion to the effect that [illegible] much more liberal under the direction of [illegible] than manage their own affairs. It will be interesting to see what steps the A. A. U. organizations that try to promote [illegible] would think if they should see the expense account of the trip of a large club to a meet.

In most cases it amounts to hundreds of dollars, as no expense is spared to add to the comfort of the athletes while en route to a meet.

The most recent example of poor judgment was in the case of Johnny Gallagher the George town University athlete, who was suspended for asking $25 for his expenses to a meet in Philadelphia. Gallagher is a popular favorite in Philadelphia, and his appearance would award the gate receipts. When he demanded his expenses to this meeting, the management took the case to the A. A. U. with the result that he was suspended. The former Yale star until the case had been investigated.

Gallagher Receives $5,000 Offer.

This is the strange part of the Amateur Athletic Union's ruling, for if an athlete is charged with an offense he has not got to be proven guilty, but he must prove himself innocent of all charges. This Gallagher refused to do. He is now outside of the A. A. U.

This case appears to have a different ending than most of the other cases, as John Pierson, the well-known New York promoter, has offered Johnny $5,000 for his appearance in a professional race. There is no doubt about Gallagher's acceptance.

EASY FOR CHICAGO.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 4.—Inspite of the W. S. L. League held the Chicago Americans to a 6-to-4 score for six innings, but a shower of hits in the remaining innings swelled the total for the major leaguers to 18. At the end Omaha had 5.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HE IS ILL MANNERED.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Some time ago I was introduced to a young man on the street, and the next day we met again and he asked to call at my home, and as it was inconvenient I refused. Then he asked me if he could call me on the telephone some time. I consented, but he has not called, and he meets me on the street and doesn't recognize me. Should I try to find out why he is mad at me? I feel that he thinks that I don't care for his company. Anxious, MARY.

TO sulk and refuse to "speak" to a girl on such slight provocation is the sign of boorishness, and I am sure you are happier without his attentions.

TIME IS THE BEST CURE.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am acquainted with a young man of twenty, who when a person of either sex begins a conversation with him turns a dark crimson. Is there any cure for this embarrassing expression? E. O. S.

THE blush of embarrassment is not so rarely these days that it is a welcome sight in comparison with the cold self-possession of even the babes of today.

If this young man will mingle more with girls and boys of his age he will find himself cured, without ever knowing when the cure began.

Hat of the Moment Is Small; Hat of the Future Is Big. Latest Instalment from Paris

A flower trimmed hat.

Boudoir cap; very simple to make.

The feather head dress mounted on straw.

Hat of gray straw with Nile green silk.

THE Easter parade has settled the bonnet question, at least for the time being, and milliners are now getting their midsummer instalment of hats from Paris.

The hat of the moment is small; the hat of the future will be large—at least that is the prediction—and milliners, as well as hairdressers, rejoice greatly, for there is more chance for both trades.

Larger hats mean more feathers and trimmings of all kinds, while they will demand more hair under them and around them—another good thing for the long-suffering hair merchant.

Just now there are some beautiful fantasies in hats for evening wear. Small poke bonnets made of tulle and straw, and trimmed with tiny garlands of flowers. Then there is the feather confection against which the Audubon Society is working. These are made all of feathers, and a mere brim of fancy straw half an inch wide serves the purpose of showing that it is a hat, and not a rare stuffed bird wonderfully mounted.

The hat of today is not becoming to all faces, for it is rather severe. The tailor-made girl, however, has everything all her own way, for she is well suited with the smart little toques of fine straw, which she can make herself with a package of straw and a ten-cent shape, and trim with a stiff bow of ribbon carefully wired to give it the standout effect.

The colors for Spring have been exceptionally vivid, but they will grow tiresome before the hot days begin, and wide hats of dull grays and burnt straw color will take their place.

One of the new shapes is shown in the illustration, with its wreath of flowers in dull shades of purple. The crown of this hat is made of silk and offers a valuable suggestion for the girl who has a hat of last year that might be freshened up for this Summer.

The bow of ribbon at the back with the long, flowing ends is essentially this Summer's fashion.

But let me beg the woman who has reached years of discretion—every woman knows when that is, though she generally can fool her husband about it—well, let me beg of her not to go through the city with one of those "follow me" bows on the back of her hat. They are for the school girl and the slim and youthful debutante.

The thin matron who looks like a girl can indulge, but no loops and streamers for the fat girl—alas and alack!

The little boudoir cap has found so much favor that it is an essential part of every dainty woman's wardrobe. This one is easily made of lace, with a double frill around the face.

Married Life the Third Year

Helen Prevents Warren from Going Up and Creating a Scene in the Apartment Above

"WHAT in thunder's going on up there?" demanded Warren irritably.

"I suppose they must have company, dear," and Helen stooped to pick up the spool of thread he had knocked off with his paper.

"Well, they don't think we're going to stand for that racket, do they?" as shrieks of laughter rose above the din of the piano.

"Oh, they'll stop before long—it's only a little after ten."

"Should say they would stop before long," grimly. "Where's that magazine with that Wall Street article?"

Helen found the magazine, and he settled down again to read. But the noisy revelry in the apartment overhead kept on. A very vigorous and strident pianist was loudly strumming popular airs, and a number of voices shrilled the chorus.

"Well, I'll settle that!" Warren rose and threw down his book as a still louder shout of laughter rang out.

"Oh dear, you're not going to complain about it?" pleaded Helen, running after him as he strode toward the 'phone.

"Why not?"

"Oh, I'd hate to offend Mrs. Sanford! Of course I've met her only in the hall and elevator, but she seemed very nice, and besides, dear, it's not half-past ten yet."

The Revelry Stops

"Well, we'll not stand for that racket at any hour."

"But Hatsen!" eagerly. "They've stopped already."

Helen was right, for the piano ceased and the merriment seemed suddenly to have died down.

Warren turned reluctantly from the 'phone, plainly disappointed at being thwarted in this opportunity to vent his ill-humor. As the silence remained unbroken, Helen breathed a sigh of relief.

At 11 Warren went to bed, still in a surly mood. But just as Helen was turning out the light there came the crashing notes of "Row, Row, Row," with a chorus of high-pitched voices.

"Here, turn on that light again!" Warren had jumped out of bed. "Where in thunder's my slippers? Get my bathrobe there, will you?"

Helen got his bathrobe and slippers and followed him pleadingly.

"Oh, dear, do be careful what you say! It'll be so unpleasant to have any strained feelings."

"Strained feelings—the devil! It'll be a whole lot more unpleasant if I don't get my sleep."

He was already at the 'phone, impatiently shaking the receiver hook.

"Hello! See here, you'll have to call up that apartment over us and tell 'em to let up on that noise. We're not going to stand for anything like that, you know. . . . . All right, and you can say the complaint came from this apartment, too—understand?"

And Warren shuffled back to bed, muttering something about "letting those people know a thing or two."

It was a chill night, and Helen, who had not stopped to get her bathrobe, crept shivering in bed beside him.

"Ugh, you're as cold as a frog," growled Warren. "Keep over there, will you?"

As She Pictured It

Helen waited breathlessly for the noise to cease. She pictured the boy phoning up and the indignant silence that would follow. She wondered if Mrs. Sanford would still speak to her when they met in the elevator. Helen so dreaded any strained relations she would always put up with any discomfort rather than make a complaint.

"Say!" Warren sat up in bed again with alarming energy. "Hasn't that boy had time to call up there yet?"

"You know after 10 he's on the elevator, too, dear. He may be taking somebody up."

Still sitting up in bed, Warren waited grimly, but the boisterous merriment seemed to increase. They were evidently dancing now; the sound of shuffling feet could be heard overhead.

Then without a word he flung back the covers, got into his slippers and bathrobe, and again stalked out to the 'phone.

This time Helen did not follow. She knew it would be useless, but through the open door she could hear him call angrily to the hallboy:

"Look here; thought I told you to stop that racket!....Well, what did they say?....What's that?....Oh, they did, did they? I'll see about that. You give me the superintendent....Yes, right now. ....He can't be asleep with all that uproar. Ring him up, I tell you!"

It was several moments before Warren got him on the 'phone. Helen, sitting up in bed, waited shiveringly unhappy. To have words with the superintendent would mean much future discomfort.

"See here, can't you do something to stop that racket upstairs? Nobody in the house can sleep. It's an outrage! What's that?....Not 12?....What's that got to do with it? Think I'm going to stand for that until 12. I'll let you know the other tenants have some rights, even though that bunch does seem to have squared you. They'll give this house a nice name if that keeps up. I'll see the agent tomorrow—and the owner, too, if necessary. Now if you want to hold your job you'll make them quiet down pretty blamed quick—understand that? and Warren slammed up the receiver.

Warren Is Angry

He did not come back to bed, but strode angrily up and down the front room, waiting to see what would happen. But either the superintendent did not attempt to quiet the merriment above, or if he did, his warning was not heeded.

"Dear, do come to bed," pleaded Helen, appearing at the door. "You'll only get yourself all worked up, and when they do stop you won't be able to sleep. If you're going to see the agent tomorrow there's nothing more you can do tonight."

"There isn't, eh? Not so sure about that. I can dress and go upstairs and raise the devil."

"Oh, Warren, you wouldn't do that! You'd just make a scene for nothing. It's almost 12—they'll be sure to stop then."

"They'll stop before then," with menacing determination. "That's just what I'm going to do. Oh, cut it!" as Helen followed him into the room and renewed her pleadings when he started to dress.

"Listen, wait just a moment!" almost tearfully. "I'll telephone up there myself—I'd rather do that than have you go up."

"Huh, wouldn't do any good. They wouldn't pay any attention to you."

"Yes, they will. I'll speak to Mrs. Sanford herself."

Taking a muttered growl for consent, Helen flew in to the phone. She would rather have been beaten than do this, but anything would be better than for Warren to go up there and make a scene.

"Will you give me Mrs. Sanford's apartment?" tremulously.

There was a moment's wait, then the "Hello!" of a woman's voice.

"Is this Mrs. Sanford's apartment? This is Mrs. Curtis. I should like to speak to Mrs. Sanford herself."

There was no answer, but Helen heard a whispered,

"Oh, it's those people downstairs! She wants to complain about the noise. What shall I say?"

Helen Explains It

There was a snicker of laughter, some whispered comments that Helen could not catch, and then a louder whisper.

"Say Mrs. Sanford's busy—that she can't come to the 'phone."

"Mrs. Sanford is engaged now," came in answer. "You'll have to call her up in the morning." A sharp click and Helen knew she had been shut off.

For a moment she stood there, her thoughts in a whirl and the indignant color burning in her face. She, too, was angry now, but her desire to keep Warren from going upstairs and making a scene was still stronger than her anger.

"Well, what'd they say?" cried Warren impatiently. "Did you get the woman herself?"

"Yes, dear, and she says she's very sorry—that they're some boisterous young people up there, and she hates to offend them. She's told them once, but she'll tell them again—and they'll soon be going home."

"Then she wasn't snippish about it?"

"Oh, no, dear, she was very nice and very apologetic," lied Helen in desperation, with a secret prayer that they would quiet down now that it was so near twelve.

To her infinite relief almost instantly all sounds of revelry ceased. Perhaps her 'phoning had been effective after all.

"Well, the agent'll hear about this all right. I have a few things to say about that superintendent, too." And Warren got heavily into bed.

Having worked off his irritation and now that the silence was unbroken, in a few moments, he was breathing heavily. But Helen by this time was too much wrought up to sleep.

That snickering laugh and whispered comment still rankled. Had it been Mrs. Sanford herself at the 'phone? The more she thought of it, the more resentful she became.

So while Warren, whose irritability had forced the incident, was snoring peacefully, Helen, now thoroughly strung up and indignant, tossed sleeplessly beside him.

LATEST FROM TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Stocks opened strong, both in the local and New York markets, and there was an early demand for American securities abroad. One hundred shares of coin per shares in Boston was the advance in warrant quotations in London. The opening rise there was more than half a monetary pound. Trading here grew more active during the first hour. Within a few minutes St. Mary's Land and Osceola had gone up two points. Isle Royale, Granby, North Butte, Butte & Superior, Hancock and Chino were among stocks to show fractional gains.

Concerning the copper metal situation it is reported that the United Metal Selling Company is now asking 15½ cents a pound and that a good business is being done at that figure.

In New York at the end of the first hour American Smelting was up 1¾ and Amalgamated ⅝. Other gains were: Canadian Pacific, 2⅝; Reading, ⅝; U. S. Rubber, 2⅜; Union Pacific, ⅜, and Steel, ⅛.

New York Advances Early.

Early advances were the rule in the New York market, where the upturn of the last hour yesterday was continued at the opening today. U. S. Rubber attracted the most attention, going up more than four points at once. Within a few minutes it lost more than a point of the gain because of profit taking. Reading was the most active railroad stock. The demand for Canadian Pacific was brisk. Among the strong specialties were American Can, Beet Sugar and Bethlehem Steel. They each sold more than a point. Most gains were fractional, however.

The New York market was strengthened at the start by favorable sentiment towards certain stocks in London. Berlin was a buyer of Americans, too. Canadian Pacific opened in New York at 230½, a gain of 2¼ over last night's closing. Within half an hour it was selling around 230. Amalgamated opened ⅝ off, but soon recovered. The list was strong and received support both from New York and London houses. Among the other gains were American Beet Sugar ⅝, Amalgamated Smelting ¼, Erie ⅛, Great Northern pfd. ⅛, Lehigh Valley ⅜, Northern Pacific ⅛, Union Pacific ⅛ and Steel common ⅛.

Reading advanced ⅞ to 166½. St. Paul and Southern Pacific were under light pressure, declining fractionally.

The Curb was steady.

Possible Tariff Compromise.

It is said that President Wilson and leading Democrats in Congress have failed to reach an agreement on the tariff question and there is a great diversity of opinion as to how far the free list should be extended. The President is chiefly interested in getting a revision which will cut the high cost of living. It is said in Washington that if sugar and wool are allowed free entry the bill may be defeated. Mr. Wilson is said to want the duty taken off these staples. One Washington dispatch reads:

"The indications are that there will be a compromise, in which there will be some yielding all around as between the President, the Finance Committee, and the Ways and Means Committee. The tentative basis of this compromise is understood to be:

"A duty of approximately 15 per cent., although this may be as low as 10 per cent., on raw wool importations.

"A duty of one cent a pound net on sugar to the American producer, after allowing for the Cuban reciprocity treaty concession of 20 per cent. reduction on importations of sugar from that island, this rate to be in effect two years. After that, sugar to be free of duty.

"If the adjustment can be made on this basis, then the bill would be introduced and passed as a single measure, instead of by schedule, and the income tax would be adjusted to provide revenue for the loss of revenue such a bill would cause."

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market opened firm with spot up 12s 6d and futures 11s 3d higher.

The following was published in New York regarding the metal situation:

"That 15½ cent copper would be a reality today was the prediction made last night by an important producer. Yesterday sales were made at 15⅜ cents a pound and a big volume of business was booked. Early morning cables from London stated that the leading American producers had done a large business in electrolytic in that market at 15⅝ cents a pound, as a result of which some of them withdrew offerings temporarily.

"Coupled with an enormous demand for the metal there were brought to attention during the day several factors tending materially to aid an advance. The chief of these was the strike at the Rio Tinto mine in Spain, which if long maintained will result in the loss of a big tonnage from production. A portion of the Rio Tinto product comes to the United States and such a loss in output should be reflected eventually, in the production item of the Copper Producers' statement."

For the week ending yesterday, copper exports totaled 9,812 tons, an increase of 6,836. The month started with a brisk foreign buying movement. For the first three days of April exports totaled 6,513 tons.

Financial News in Brief.

It is denied that a seat in the New York Stock Exchange has been sold for $50,000, as was rumored yesterday.

United States Rubber Company directors have increased the common dividend from a 4 to a 6 per cent. annual basis by declaring a quarterly payment of 1½ per cent.

Prices of refined sugar are at the lowest level touched in more than a decade. The retail price of 4½ cents per pound is more than 1 cent below the average quotation for several years past.

The Pennsylvania Steel Company, it is reported, intends to reduce its preferred dividend from 7 to 5 per cent.

The American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. reports that the total net earnings from operations in 1912 were $400,200, compared with $471,672 in the previous year. The consolidated balance sheet shows $164,435 cash, compared with $108,978 in 1911, and an increase in surplus of $1,753.

Recent weakness in Cluesspenke & Ohio is partly due to a revival of rumors that directors will reduce the dividend requirements. In the eight months to the end of February net earnings, after expenses and taxes, showed a loss compared with a year ago, and dividend requirements for the period were hardly more than earned.

The New York subsentary gained $1,260,000 from banks yesterday and has gained $6,310,000 since Friday.

FORBES URGES U. S. CURRENCY LEGISLATION

B. C. FORBES, Business Editor.

The United States needs currency legislation every whit as urgently as it needs tariff revision.

Unless the calls made for assistance by county banks exceed all reasonable and anticipated, there should be three or four months of fairly easy money conditions. But how this country is to get through the Fall is a problem. To be quite frank, the biggest bankers are alarmed over the Autumn outlook.

They are to wage a campaign of education in the hope of impressing upon their out-of-town correspondents the necessity for putting a stop to credit expansion. Reserve cities are now calling upon the central reserve cities, particularly New York, for funds. In turn, the reserve cities are owing to grant accommodations to the rural banks, among whom the need for caution is not realized.

The charge is often glibly made that Wall street drains the country of funds at critical times. At present the draining process is all the other way. In order to meet the requirements of their correspondents, the Metropolitan banks have to withdraw liquid cash from the stock market.

In a last resort, Wall street is just as much at the mercy of the country as the country is at the mercy of Wall street. For many weary months, Wall street has been in a comatose condition.

Mercantile failures, it is feared, will be unpleasantly numerous before the year is over. Tariff reductions will not mend matters. The woolen trade is extremely alarmed. Down-town bankers yesterday received very doleful reports from the dry goods districts.

The credit strain is not confined to the United States. Europe is confronted with huge loans and Canada has also been spending freely.

Isaac N. Seligman, who returned only recently from Europe, remarked yesterday that France alone would float some $300,000,000 loans. However, the release of hoarded gold which should begin shortly would help very much. Mr. Seligman cited one instance where a man who had hoarded more than a million. Now that peace is here and that the Franco-German war scare promises to subside hidden coin may be expected to reappear in banking channels.

"I don't see any reason in sight for bull speculation," remarked one authority after the day was over.

Many would like to be sure there is enough to carry on the business of the country through the remainder of the year. The heavy withdrawals by country banks and the receipts of bills for settlement gave rise to doubts on this point.

The scarcity of capital, however, enables the investor with ready money to pick good securities on a basis that affords him a generous income. That is one consoling feature of the situation.

WARD 19 COMMITTEE CHOSEN TO DEMAND 'L' GIVE BETTER SERVICE

A committee representing 2,000 citizens of Ward 19, Roxbury, will call upon officials of the Boston Elevated Railway Company and upon the Railroad Commission to demand that the Elevated restore its maximum car service on Tremont street for the benefit of that section, as a result of a mass meeting under the auspices of the Ward 19 Democratic Club.

Strong protests were made by several speakers against what was declared to be inadequate service given Roxbury.

The meeting was unanimously opposed to the transfer of an appropriation of $15,000 for fire fighting the fire-fighting facilities of the Parker Hill district, the general appropriation of the city. Councillor Attridge was there interested in securing fire protection matter to attend the town meeting to be given under the direction of Mayor Fitzgerald and the Council, in the Roxbury High School. Warren street, Tuesday evening.

Superintendent There.

Former Representative James McInerney of Ward 19 presided. Seated on the platform were Congressman James M. Curley, Superintendent H. H. Hanson of Division 2 of the Boston Elevated, representatives of the Railroad Commission, the road; Councillor James A. Watson, Representatives P. Joseph McManus and Timothy F. Ahern of Ward 19. Councillors Earnest E. Smith and John J. Attridge, Ward 19 Committeeman and Patrick J. McManus, chairman of the Ward 22 Democratic Committee.

Superintendent Hanson said:

I think you will be somewhat disappointed in me, because I am no speechmaker. Vice President Brush of the road was to come here, but he was called away unexpectedly and asked me to represent him. He delegated me to tell you that he could not be here.

I have made no study of the situation, so I don't understand it. I have only recently come to this section, and have conditions that you speak of are not familiar to me. They are new to me. You said something about it being impossible to get in the running time of cars. It is a matter of fact that during the day no two cars down Tremont street on a ten-minute time. Of course, they do not return on a ten-minute line, because of unavoidable conditions in the city proper over which we have no control. For instance, there is the question of congestion due to teaming in the streets and to cars following each other.

It is pleasing to hear a discussion of this matter and about the difficulties of the road, but I don't hear you say anything about the good service we have. Many favorable comments were given. Now let us refer to the transfer privileges recently put in force by the Elevated, which have established transfer points at Northampton street, Washington, Columbus avenue and Massachusetts avenue.

Then there is the line of cars on Huntington avenue, North Station, which heretofore terminated at Park street. Now the business men in Wards 18, 19 and 22 to have that matter changed.

You are paying the dividends to General Bancroft and the stockholders of the road. General Bancroft and his men forget that the street belongs to you. They are assuming a "public be damned" policy.

Elevated officials or the Railroad Commissioners and do my part as your representative in getting better transit facilities or anything else you may wish. I want to take this opportunity of recording myself in favor of more cars on Tremont street.

Edward Burke said the question of labor unions had nothing to do with the car service. He called Superintendent Hanson one of the squarest men who had the handling of labor.

Michael Connelly offered a motion that a committee be appointed to confer with the Elevated officials and Railroad Commissioners to see what could be done to place the cars back on Tremont street. Chairman McInerney appointed the following: Representatives Timothy F. Ahern, Joseph McManus, Joseph F. O'Brien, James Kelly, Dr. John F. Sullivan, Dr. Bruce, Patrick J. Sheehan, Joseph Long and former Representative James McInerney.

Congressman James M. Curley, who was present with a delegation from Ward 17, was given a rousing reception.

Don't know what they so call the service that they give us.

London has more than twice the population of the State of Massachusetts. No conveyance in that city is permitted to carry more passengers than there are seats.

The L is a disgrace to any civilized community. They are packing people in their cars like sheep, and cattle.

This is a positive fact and is familiar to every man here. The recent cold wave made possible a great field for the light-hungered scurvy. The cars are breeding spots for infection.

Councillor "Jerry" Watson told Dr. Sullivan to go to Beacon Hill for redress, remarking, "Could Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

A Mr. Palmer, who said he represented the Grove Hall section, declared the car service was equally as poor in his locality. "Everybody is about the same all over the city," he said. He favored a Boston-wide movement "to the end that the Elevated my come down from their high horse."

Hits Road's Policy.

"Let us get together and make a united protest," said Mr. Palmer. "Let us show the road that the 95 per cent. of the people of the city are in favor of better car service. The road now claims that but 5 per cent. of the people are clamoring for better car service."

Perley McLaren, chairman of the Ward 22 Democratic Committee, advocated a return of the market car on Washington street, Roxbury, from Eglestou square. He said:

The poor working woman with her market basket is denied her old-time privilege of riding on the surface cars our Washington and Tremont streets by the high Subway marketing. We will get a monster petition and have it signed by the business men in Wards 18, 19 and 22 to have that matter put required.

You are paying the dividends to General Bancroft and the stockholders of the road. General Bancroft and his men forget that the street belongs to you. They are assuming a "public be damned" policy.

EVENING HIGH TRADE CLASSES GET DIPLOMAS

Dancing, concerts and speeches featured the graduation exercises in the Greater Boston commercial evening high schools and the number of graduates was the largest in the history of the schools.

Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Port Directors, addressed the seventy-five graduates at the Dorchester High School Building on the commercial future of Boston and New England. Michael H. Corcoran, Jr., of the School Committee, distributed diplomas and Dr. Franklin B. Dyer, Superintendent of Schools, gave a talk on "Success and the Future," which was followed by a concert.

Master William B. Snow conducted the exercises at the Central Evening High School, which concluded with a concert and dance. Superintendent Dyer made a short address and presented diplomas to forty-eight. Essays were read by Francis J. Turcottee, Daniel J. Tierney, Jr., Abraham Kaufberg, William A. Green, Joseph T. White and H. Russell Clark.

Fifty-six girls received diplomas at the Girls' Evening High School in West Newton street, from Miss Frances L. Curtis of the State Normal School, who delivered an address. Folk songs by Frederick J. Bancroft and music by the High School Orchestra exercises completed the program.

Diplomas were presented to fifty-eight at the Roxbury Evening Commercial High School by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Frank V. Thompson. Dancing followed the musical program carried out under the direction of Master Raymond G. Laird.

In the Charlestown Evening Commercial High School Walter S. Parker, assistant superintendent of schools, distributed diplomas. Master James W. Mace spoke and music and dancing concluded the program.

Says Gelett Burgess In Maxims of Methuselah:

"Lo, the fool polleth the waitress, and thinketh in his heart she smileth for him alone; yet when he is gone, another cometh, and repeateth his words, and behold, she maketh the same answers. So is he who thinketh only by violets the confectionery to win a woman; he shall be as one of many."

Today---as You Look Over and THINK Over the News

Parcel Post, Financiers Fighting, No Hips for Women, Ocean-Air Ships and Other Thing Attract You

Copyright, 1913, by American-Journal-Examiner

Who is to be the king of money in America now that the king is dead?

At a dinner not long ago Thomas F. Ryan—something of a king himself—said of Davison, in the house of Morgan & Co.: "That man will be the big man one day. He will take the place of Morgan, Rockefeller, myself and some others."

Some suggest that Otto Kahn will be the new king—but he won't. He spends too much time enjoying life, and self-made kings don't do that.

Others believe that Speyer, who gives a good imitation of a Spanish diplomat of the time of Charles V., will be the king. Perhaps he will. The manner in which he took away the Mexican agencies from Morgan & Co. some time ago indicates that he has ability.

But probably the king of finance is somebody not mentioned at all now, some "little man" who will suddenly become big, when he finds how easy it is to rule with the mystic symbol "O. P. M.," or "OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY."

Worth, the Paris male dressmaker, who has made some women look beautiful, and many others look hideous and silly, says that women must have "straight lined figures" and get along without hips.

It is pitiful to think how many poor fat women are going to wrap themselves up in rubber bandages and trot along perspiring for an hour or two trying to get rid of those hips.

Any woman ought to have hips fairly big, and arms moderately fat, and after her earliest youth, a reasonable surplus of tissue—for a very simple reason. It is woman's business to create an entire human being every little while, and she must have energy and tissue to spare. How wonderful that the woman with the silly kind of a shape has been able to make millions of other women torture themselves in the effort to be like her. We need woman suffrage, if only TO OCCUPY THE BRAINS OF WOMEN AND GET THEM OFF THEIR HIPS AND HATS.

Twenty-six millions of dollars went to the Postoffice recently, instead of going to the private express companies.

That is what the weeping express companies say, and they ought to know. One million small packages were carried cheaply by the government instead of being carried expensively by the express companies. Excellent news.

But how long it took the people, how many miles of editorial howling and public speechmaking to make the sovereign people use their OWN postoffice for their OWN purposes, instead of paying one hundred per cent. profit a year to express companies.

Progress is slow, but we do progress—and the proof of it is the fact that we have now a beginning of a parcel post, and we have today FOUR MEN ENTERED IN A FLYING MACHINE RACE ACROSS THE OCEAN.

Only a little while ago the flying machine was laughed at. Now it FLIES, and here comes a $50,000 prize for the first man to cross the ocean in seventy-two hours.

That seventy-two-hour suggestion will seem ridiculous within one hundred years, when machines will go one thousand miles an hour, and across the Atlantic in three hours—enabling the affectionate son to go back to Frankfort to lunch with his mother on her birthday.

W. W. Astor, who takes five millions a year from New York and spends it in England, is sued by a woman—an anti-vivisectionist lady. May she get part of his money.

That absentee gentleman should be so thoroughly taxed here at home, on income and otherwise, that he wouldn't be able to publish a paper in England, criticising anti-vivisectionists or anybody else. So much for him.

As for the lady who sues him, she is an enthusiastic person named Miss Lind-af-Hageby. In a window in Piccadilly she keeps on exhibition a hideous, horrible presentation of a stuffed dog, tortured on a vivisectionist's rack.

It is as bad to torture kind-hearted women and children as it is to torture animals. And any anti-vivisectionist who exhibits monstrous, shocking reproductions of vivisection is as cruel as any other vivisectionist—since such exhibitions vivisect and torture tender-hearted women and children. The fight against unscientific and reckless vivisection should be carried on in the legislatures, not by exhibiting horrible spectacles on the public streets.

Does this interest you?

One hundred and eighty millions of dollars will be distributed this month in the shape of dividends from different corporations. On one single day, Monday last, $55,737,457 went into the pockets of stockholders. If the distribution doesn't interest you personally, you may be glad to know that there is so much money in this world.

You may also be glad to know that Sir John Cockburn, a very wise English doctor, has started a crusade against women's veils. He says they make women hideous. They do worse than make them hideous. They injure their eyes with the foolish little spots in the veils, they encourage young girls to paint their faces—the veil hides the paint, partially.

And, besides, a great many men lose valuable hours trying to untie the veils in the back, or get the pins out of them. Veils should go.

However, let us all be optimistic, for the world is getting better. And let us try not to become so hardened as to be indifferent to corruption, or callous at good news.

The human race is growing up, and it has made wonderful strides lately. It has the flying machine to conquer distance, and the dictaphone to catch thieves, and the ballot box, which some day it may use wisely. In the language of a widely advertised scientist, "There Is Hope."

The Merry Month of April

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

FROM THE PASTOR OF THE SHAWMUT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Your editorial on the last page, with the picture "Whitewing" and the words written by Dorothy Dix are a valuable influence. I rejoice when something is done that will really uplift.

Very truly yours,

E. ELLSWORTH SHUMAKER.

Boston, April 2, 1913.

GERMAN MUSIC NOT THE ONLY MUSIC HERE.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Mr. Churchill's letter published in the AMERICAN last week, pleading for more recognition by the great symphony orchestras of this country of other than German composers, seems very strange to one acquainted more or less with the situation. The Boston Opera Company, I believe, has produced not a half dozen of the German operas, the balance being given to French and Italian schools, and this certainly does not bear out his statement. Our Symphony Orchestra gives us, it is true, an abundance of Wagner, Strauss and Beethoven, or in other words the best in music, but also we hear frequently, MacDowell, Cadman, Chadwick and Goldmark (Americans), Grieg (Norwegian), Sibelius (Finn), Tschaikowsky (Russian), Elgar (English), Debussy (French).

Of course, the giants of music are Germans, and why should we not hear them? In Symphony programs this year, my observation has been that Dr. Muck has given us nearly everything new that is great while, beside the standards, irrespective of the school or nationality. Perhaps I have not read Mr. Churchill's letter correctly, and if I have not caught his point, would be glad to hear from him further, but the contention that we hear too much German to the exclusion of all others including our own American, I do not believe is well founded.

HOPES FOR TURTLE SERUM

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Permit me to thank you for your splendid editorial of the other evening on the much-absorbing question, the "white plague," and the chances of its being cured with turtle serum. You have shown characteristic optimism on the subject, and I join you in wishing the German physician every success.

JOHN SWEENEY.

When a Public Service Corporation and the People Really Get Together—Well, Here's an Instance

And, Incidentally, the AMERICAN Offers a Few More Suggestions Proposed by Its Readers for the Improvement of the Street Railway Service

The value of big corporations dealing directly with the people was never better exemplified than on Tuesday night in Dorchester.

The Meeting House Hill Improvement Association held a meeting to discuss the poor street car service given their community. Several speakers expressed themselves in no mild terms about the Elevated's neglect, basing their remarks on the service or lack of service they had been accustomed to. The temper of the meeting up to this time was distinctly hostile to the street railway company.

Then Superintendent Wilkins, in charge of a local division of the Elevated, asked to be heard. The request granted, he explained the situation from his company's viewpoint and then told of the improvements in service planned and gave the exact time these improvements are to go into effect.

The result—a better understanding between the street car patrons and the company, and instead of resolutions of censure the meeting adopted a vote of thanks to the Elevated.

The recent declaration through the AMERICAN by the Elevated that it was really anxious to improve conditions and inviting complaints from their patrons has also borne fruit.

Many suggestions and some improvements have resulted.

One voiced by the AMERICAN and the Boylston street merchants regarding the establishment of a line from the Church street entrance of the Public Gardens to the South Station, with full transfer privileges, was acted on promptly by the Elevated.

This one change cost the company little, yet it eliminates the old danger to the women and children, who were previously forced to cross the vehicle crowded junction of Tremont and Boylston streets to reach a South Station car.

The AMERICAN wishes to make some further suggestions, most of which come from its readers.

There is a line of cars running from Coolidge Corner to Copley Square. Why not establish the Brookline terminus a little further out, at Washington and Beacon streets; and instead of stopping at Copley Square, continue to Park Square, from where passengers might transfer to various points?

The Elevated is now running an express service on the Mattapan line during the evening rush hours, making no stops either to take on or let off passengers between Dudley Street and Grove Hall. Also, in the morning rush hours, the "car full" plan has been adopted on the line from the Clarendon Hill car barns, Somerville, inward on the Highland Avenue line to the East Cambridge viaduct, and also from North Cambridge to Harvard Square.

Now why not extend the express and "car full" system? Why not, for instance, run Medford bound cars express from Sullivan Square to Winter Hill? Why not run cars express from the Harvard Square outlet of the Cambridge Subway in the direction of North Cambridge and of Mount Auburn? Why not run Dorchester cars express from Dudley Street to Grove Hall?

Both the express and "car full" systems are working satisfactorily where they are being tried. The latter is a new thing in Boston. When, during the rush hours, an inward bound surface car becomes overloaded, or falls behind in its schedule, an inspector hangs a "car full" sign upon the car, which then makes no further stops to take on passengers until it reaches the elevated terminal.

Of course, neither the "car full" nor the express system should be overdone, for, while of great benefit to the long-distance passenger, the short-distance rider should not be compelled to suffer inconvenience.

GO-CART CHAUFFEUR

By N. P. BABCOCK

THERE'S a very small young lady
Who goes riding past my door,
Both on sunny days and shady,
Every afternoon at four.

She's a haughty little creature
And, though you're a millionaire,
She will scan your every feature
With a calm, relentless stare.

You may rent a sixty-power
Or an eighty-power car,
Or a taxi by the hour,
But with her you're not at par.

For her chauffeur is behind her
And does not obstruct the view;
There is nothing to remind her
There's a single thing to do.

She is moved on springs as luring
As the bosom of the sea;
'Tis like drifting from one's mooring
On a floating symphony.

But the mystery extended
Is the fuel that's employed,
For the more of it expended
Is the less of it destroyed.

It's a force whose emanation
Is a flame that always glows;
Just a mother's adoration
That no waning ever knows.

And so, my dear, I mention
It is joy to see you move;
Though you have no comprehension
Of the limitless dimension
Of your faithful chauffeur's love!

THE MARCH OF SCIENCE

By PERCY SHAW

THEY have robbed the spike-faced cactus
Of thorns it used to wear;
No more the corncob up to date
Makes tassels of its hair;
No more the prickles sprout with glee
Upon the prickly pear.

The lemon soon will have no seeds;
The pomegranate tart
Has lost its old-time usefulness
To pucker up the heart!
And every kind of fruit that grows
Is labelled "This is art."

Now comes a man who branches out
Far from the beaten track;
He introduces to our midst
The duck without a quack,
And soon we may be riding on
The horse without a back.

The march of science has begun,
We move into the light;
Oh, let us offer prayers for
The dog that cannot bite,
And also for the poet who
Can never, never write.
